Ritz Towers Hotel Blast Kills Or Injures Dozen Men

Two Firemen Officially Listed as Known Dead—Explosion Occurred In Paint Shop—Damage Tentatively Estimated at $200,000—Jewelry Shop Demolished and Gems Strewn in the Street.

New York, Aug. 1 (AP).—An explosion shook the 42 story Ritz Towers Hotel in Park avenue today, killing or seriously injuring at least a dozen men, blowing in the fronts of stores, and scattering a fortune in jewels in the street.

The explosion occurred in the paint shop three stories below the street while firemen were fighting a basement fire.

The first of the dead to be identified was Lieut. Hartnett of the 16th Truck Company. Another fireman's body was brought out but could not be immediately identified. Ten others were carried from the hotel seriously injured and were treated at an emergency hospital in the street.

There were reports that there were still two bodies and a dozen more injured persons in the lower basement, but these lacked official confirmation.

One of the stores which was demolished was the jewelry shop of Thomas Kirkpatrick, in the 57th street side of the hotel.

The front was smashed in, two clerks were severely cut by flying glass, and more than $100,000 in gems were strewn in the debris cluttered street.

Sitting in the ruins of his store, weeping, Kirkpatrick said that among other jewels blasted from the show window were two diamond brooches worth 10,000 each, an emerald ring worth $12,000, and a pearl necklace worth $65,000.

Two Firemen Dead.

The two known dead were officially listed as Lieutenant James Harnett, of Truck 16, and Fireman Thomas S. Finn, of Engine 65.

A special detachment of detectives was assigned to the injured Fitzpatrick clerks as they hunted through the wreckage in 57th street for the missing jewels.

Besides the known dead and injured one fireman was reported missing.

Damage was tentatively estimated at $200,000, including the lost jewelry.

The explosion cut off all power in the hotel and elevator service stopped. Guests were not allowed to leave and only the police could enter.

Fireman George Lorze, of Engine Company No. 8, his clothes almost all torn off by the blast, said that Engine Company No. 6 reached the fire first and almost all members of that company were trapped in the basement when the explosion occurred. He said that with Fireman Daniel Lynch of his company he carried six unconscious men to the street.

Smoke from the fire, which continued after the explosion, drifted up through elevator shafts and poured from the highest tower. Great suction pipes were run into the basement from the street to clear the interior sufficiently to let firemen fight the subterranean blaze.

Dr. Harry Archer, honorary surgeon of the fire department, said shortly after noon that 11 firemen had been taken to Bellevue Hospital and that it was doubtful if three men would live.

Thirty firemen were at work in the underground paint shop when the explosion occurred. Most of them were unable to get to the street. Firemen and members of six police rescue squads hoisted them to the street level at the end of ropes.

Four priests went to the scene and as thousands of onlookers watched with bared heads the priests administered last rites to the dying and anointed the dead.

GOVERNOR ELY WILL SUPPORT ROOSEVELT

Boston, Aug. 1 (AP).—Governor Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts, whose endorsement of the Democratic ticket has long been a source of speculation, will support the candidacy of his party's nominee, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The prepared statement announcing his support of the New York governor also contained the information that he would be a candidate for re-election.

Governor Ely frankly admitted that he desired to leave public life but he found himself unable to do so "without the sanction of those who vote."

Last of the Smith leaders to fall in line behind the Democratic presidential candidate, Ely indicated he was not taking back anything he had previously said espousing the cause of Al Smith. He said, however, he was convinced from his conference at Albany last week that "the platform of the Democratic party adopted at Chicago will be carried out by Governor Roosevelt with earnest and energetic action."

FIRE DEPARTMENT CALLED THREE TIMES OVER WEEK-END

Early Sunday morning the fire department was called for a fire in the Lawton foundry on Prince street. The fire was confined to the roof. Saturday night the firemen were called out by a fire in the quarry hole in Ponckhockie and Sunday for a fire at the Abeel street dump.

Five-Day Week Discussions Opened

Washington, Aug. 1 (AP).—Rapidly expanding relief plans centered today about a meeting to find means of spreading the five day week and the Federal Reserve Board's decision to let system banks make loans to individuals.

President Hoover, hoping to join the White House conference late in the day or early tomorrow, designated Secretaries Doak and Lamont to represent him in a discussion of the five day week with a group of New Englanders.

Today, too, individuals, partnerships and corporations could borrow directly from Federal Reserve Banks on paper eligible for discount, the money to be used in financing current business operations.

The power for the Federal Reserve Board to make these loans possible was included in the new relief law after President Hoover vetoed a bill sponsored by Speaker Garner permitting the $2,800,000,000 reconstruction corporation to advance money to individuals.

The authority finally granted by congress and approved by the president is considerably more limited than Garner wanted. It requires reserve board approval for each advance by at least five of the seven members. The secretary of the treasury and the comptroller of the currency are ex-officio members, while five others are appointed to the board.

The bank likewise must determine that the money could not be obtained elsewhere, that there are "unusual and exigent circumstances."

The board reserved the right to approve interest rates fixed by the banks and set out regulations, elaborating legal specifications.

Adolf Hitler Slips In German Election

Berlin, Aug. 1 (AP)—Adolf Hitler's push for complete power in Germany was stopped today.

The question, following yesterday's elections, was whether the present government under the Junker-soldier, General Von Schleicher, would continue or whether Hitler could negotiate an alliance with former Chancellor Heinrich Bruening.

Hitler and his Nazi followers doubled their strength in the Reichstag over four years ago, but fell far short of achieving the clear majority they sought, receiving little more than one-third of the total vote.

The official apportionment of seats indicated the new Reichstag will have 608 members, distributed among the parties as follows:

Nazis, 230; Socialists, 133; Centrists and Bavarian People's Party, 97; Communists, 89; Nationalists, 37; Populists, 7; Christian Socialists, 4; Economic Party, 2; Agricultural Alliance 2; Farmers' Federation, 2; State's Party, 2; Farmers' Party, 2.

At Munich, however, Hitler issued a statement to his followers in which he called the election "our greatest success" and pledged them to "carry on the fight with unabated vigor."

In an address to his 400,000 storm troops he said:

"An overwhelming victory has been won through the supreme sacrifice of our comrades. Now, as never before, the dead have bound us to the sacred duty of carrying on the fight for Germany's freedom."

Downtown Merchants Favor Market There

Many of the downtown business men when they read in the columns of The Freeman on Saturday that there was a plan underway to move the public market which has been held for years on lower Hasbrouck avenue to Block Park on Abeel street decided to take steps to prevent the plan from being carried into execution.

This afternoon a delegation of downtown business men planned to meet with Mayor Carey and urge that no steps be taken to remove the public market from its present location to Block Park.

The business men claim that those who patronize the market downtown also do business with the mercantile businesses there, and that this business would undoubtedly be lost if the market were removed to Block Park.

Intoxication Charge.

Henry Johnson, 25, colored, of New Paltz, was committed to the Ulster county jail Sunday for ten days on a charge of intoxication. He was arraigned before Justice I. C. Barnes.

Carpenters On Socialist Home At Cottekill Strike

Were Working 10 Hours a Day at 60 Cents an Hour While Local Union Scale is 90 Cents an Hour and an Eight-Hour Day.

A strike of union carpenters was ordered this morning on the new building of the Socialist Relief Society at Cottekill, carpenter work on which was begun a week ago. Six men, all apparently foreigners, were at work and three of these obeyed the order at once. It was presumed that all of the men were union members, but not all of them showed their cards when demanded by local union officials who are cooperating with the union officials in New Jersey, who asked the local union to look into the matter.

All union carpenter work in Ulster county is under the jurisdiction of Kingston Local, No. 251, and governed by its scale and rules. The scale of wages of this union is 90 cents an hour for an eight hour day. The carpenters employed on the Socialist building at Cottekill were being paid 60 cents an hour and were working 10 hours a day. The contractor is a man named Netters, from North Bergen, N. J., and the carpenters are said to have been brought in from the same locality. The men apparently Germans, refused to give their names or show their cards to local union officials.

The terms of the contract call for the employment of union labor, and, of course, payment of the local union scale follows. It is said that the contractor told the Socialist society officials that he was willing to pay $1 an hour to carpenters.

The Socialist Relief Society has for some time maintained a home at Cottekill for aged members of its organization, who have been domiciled in a large building on the old Pine farm, about midway between Binnewater and Stone Ridge, and a few weeks ago the construction of a new building, which will double the capacity of the institution, was begun. The home has a capacity to provide for about 200 inmates. Most of the inmates are Germans.

Pardee's Wild Ride Ends In Gun Fire

Was Ordered to Pull Up to Curb and Instead Speeded Away—Officer Boss Put Two Bullets Through Rear Tires of Pardee's Car—Other Cases in Court.

James Pardee, 25, of 121 Main street, Poughkeepsie, ended his wild drive in his Star car when two bullets from the revolver of Officer Ernest Boss pierced the two rear tires, and Pardee's car suddenly slackened speed and was brought to a halt on Abeel street, shortly after 10 o'clock Sunday morning. This morning the Poughkeepsie youth faced Judge Culloton in police court on four charges; that of reckless driving; having no license to operate a car; using illegal license plates, and refusing to obey the lawful commands of an officer. On the reckless charge he was fined $50, and $5 each on the three other charges, making a total of $65 in fines. He had previously pled guilty to all four charges.

According to Pardee's story at police headquarters where he was taken after his arrest he had driven to Kingston after his uncle, Byron Purdy, to take him back to Poughkeepsie where a job awaited the uncle.

Officer Boss was on duty at the Rondout Creek Bridge and he ordered Pardee to draw up to the curb when Pardee failed to produce his driving license when requested to do so by the officer. Instead of pulling up to the curb Pardee stepped on the gas and turned into West Union street to Broadway to Meadow street to Hasbrouck avenue to the Strand and out Abeel street to beyond Block Park where he was finally halted by Officer Boss who gave chase in a car driven by James Costello.

Pardee in his wild ride through the downtown streets sideswiped two cars parked at curbs. Officer Boss called on him to halt several times, but Pardee refused to do so and finally the officer pulled his revolver and fired twice. The bullets lodged in the rear tires of the fleeing car, flattening both tires and slowing up the speeding car to such an extent that he was easily overhauled and placed under arrest.

Taxi Driver Arrested.

Raymond Shapiro, a taxi driver of the Bronx, New York city, was arrested Sunday on a charge of reckless driving preferred against him by Officer Ernest Boss, following a collision between Shapiro's car and a machine driven by Ernest Temple of New York city, in which three people were injured. The three injured were Rosie and Dainnie Fishman of Brooklyn and Matilda Osborn of Ulster Park. All three women were cut and bruised and had their wounds dressed at the Kingston Hospital, later leaving the hospital.

This morning in police court Shapiro entered a plea of not guilty and the hearing was adjourned to August 9.

Other Cases in Court.

Edward Whittaker, driver of one of the big busses of the former Klein & Huber line, was arrested Saturday afternoon on a charge of failing to stop his bus for the stop sign at Fair and Pearl streets. He pled guilty today to the charge and was fined $2.

Bernard Kirschner of Ridgewood, N. J., arrested for not having his driving license with him, produced the license in court today and was discharged.

FOREST FIRE FIGHTERS WELCOME ARRIVAL OF CHECKS

Brodhead, Aug. 1.—D. R. Hillson, the forest ranger of Phoenicia, was around Saturday with the long looked for checks for fighting the High Point Mountain fire. Several of our young volunteers who day and night withstood the hardships of fire fighting now feel that their depression is over temporarily at least as 30 cents per hour time counted up fast.

WIFE INCURABLY ILL, HE KILLS HER AND HIMSELF

Mineola, N. Y., Aug. 1 (AP)—Dudley K. Morris lost a modest fortune when stocks crashed in 1929, and grinned.

He took a bullet in the chest during the World War, yet carried on.

But when the doctors told him that his wife was incurably ill, it was more than he could bear.

On the top floor of a Glen Cove hospital yesterday, in the room where she lay ill, he killed her with a pistol shot and then himself.

Upon the bed when police arrived was a book Mrs. Morris had been reading. It was titled "Top Floor Murder".

6,000 Veterans Now In Johnstown; Feeding Men Is Big Problem

Campers Cheer When Told Permanent Camp Will Be Established in Maryland—Mayor McCloskey Demands Answer From President.

Johnstown, Pa., Aug. 1 (AP).—The flag waves through a blue haze of smelly smoke today, over the busiest scene since the bonus expeditionary force converged on Johnstown.

With assurance from their leader, Walter W. Waters, that a permanent camp will be established for them in the woodlands near Laurel, Md., the ragged, bronzed veterans hustled through their camp duties with a new lease on life.

Staff officers pointed out the contrast of the crowded encampment today with the dismal spectacle which greeted the fiery, young leader on his arrival from Washington yesterday.

Sullen, despairing, they sprawled about the sun-baked field, as officers in shirt sleeves worked with telephone, paper and pencil to replenish a fast-diminishing supply of food.

Waters stood before them and shouted the news that he had acquired a deed to 25 acres of land, that he can obtain 25 additional acres and is privileged to use 200 if need be.

From the heavy timberland men can build cabins, he said. They can plant gardens, establish dairies, raise chickens, rabbits and other live stock and make the new camp self-sustaining.

The announcement brought the campers to their feet with a roar of cheers. Battered hats flew into the air and veterans, who a few minutes before listened with only a trace of interest, suddenly were transformed into a happy, singing, shouting multitude.

Other waves of cheers and applause greeted Waters's announcement that plans for the "khaki shirts," a semi-military political organization are being pressed "in every state in the Union."

To Fight Battles at the Polls.

Waters emphasized that "I do not intend to make another march to Washington. Get that straight. We'll fight our battles at the polls."

He explained that in the meantime he intends to center his attention on the camp. He said the land was offered to him by Maud Edgell, who was prompted to action after being a witness to the recent disorders in Washington.

"We'll build our camp there," he boomed, "and if they tear down our shacks again—we'll kill them."

Registration officers at Camp McCloskey announced 6,000 veterans were encamped last night. Still they came in from many sections of the country.

The food situation is growing serious, the officers admit, although heavy trucks have rolled in with provisions from a dozen cities.

Hoke Smith, in charge of supplies, said this morning he has sufficient food to last about 12 hours, "but that's all."

D. B. Ellison, national contact officer, made a nation-wide appeal last night for food, medical supplies and bedclothing.

Mayor Demands Answer.

Aroused by the failure to receive reply from his telegram to President Hoover and the American Red Cross for aid for the expedition, whose officers he invited to come to Johnstown, Mayor Eddie McCloskey wired the President again.

The telegram read:

"As an American citizen I demand an answer from you on my telegram appealing for aid for the Bonus Expeditionary Forces stranded here. As mayor of Johnstown I certainly am entitled to this courtesy. Repeating urgent need for action."

Efforts are being made to move the official staff from the mayor's office in the city hall to a nearby building.

Doak A. Carter, chief of staff, announced today that none of the veterans are leaving camp, but instead, more are coming. He says it may be more than two weeks before they will be able to begin moving to the new camp near Laurel.

Camp Free From Radicals.

Carter says an inspection shows the camp is free from radicals and communists. Several men, not affiliated with the army, were picked up as suspicious persons yesterday and were ordered out of town. Members of the army said they were communists. Carter reiterated he will fight to keep the organization clean.

Announcement that a hospital would be set up at the camp within a few days brought cheer to veterans who have been diligently seeking to bring sanitation to the park which is ill equipped to care for the horses. A half dozen or so veterans are quite sick.

Lynn Adams, state police superintendent, made a tour of the encampment yesterday and reported everything quiet. Magistrate James Hargraves, officially inspecting for the city of Johnstown, also found the same conditions. He protested the influx of vagrants not connected with the bonus forces.

State troopers continued to patrol highways as numerous groups of veterans spent the night along the road enroute to Camp McCloskey. Fear in Johnstown has subsided but citizens are still protesting occupation by the bonus seekers.

Treasury Receipts.

Washington, Aug. 1 (AP)—Treasury receipts for July 29 were $3,949,924.30; expenditures $14,129,769.73; balance $158,913,170.21; customs duties for 29 days of July $17,794,959.56.

Gates Are Necessary At Schoharie To Regulate Flow

Commissioner Deitz Says He Will Recommend Installation of Such Gates as Soon as Condition of New York City Will Justify Such Action—Residents and Fishermen Filed Complaint.

For some time fisherman have complained of the manner in which the flow of the waters from the Gilboa reservoir of the city of New York has been directed through the Shandaken tunnel and into the Esopus creek. At times the water has been so high as to prohibit fishing in the Esopus creek while the spasmodic high water and then low water had done much damage to trout. Extremely high water followed by the turning off of the tunnel and the resultant low water has left fish in pools which later dry up and thousands of small fish are killed each year in this manner.

The Esopus creek in the vicinity of Phoenicia has long been considered one of the best trout streams in the state. Since the city has been turning the Gilboa waters into the Esopus fishermen have found fishing difficult and at times prohibitive.

Sportsmen in the county have endeavored to have the flow regulated and the city has assisted by turning the water off over the week-ends. This has helped but the extremely high water at times has been maintained with its resultant destruction to fish. Hotel keepers and boarding house keepers in the section have protested and recently a petition has been drawn up and circulated by J. P. Elmendorf of Phoenicia. This petition has been signed by over 150 signers representing all lines of business along the Esopus. The petition has also been augmented by many individual protests from resident and out of town fishermen who presented their protest directly to New York officials. This petition was recently forwarded to Commissioner John J. Dietz of the Department of Water Supply Gas and Electricity and under date of July 25, Commissioner Dietz has replied to the petition.

Commissioner Dietz states that the city of New York desired to be a good neighbor to the people of Ulster county and that he has endeavored to have the flow of the stream regulated to meet the desire of the fishermen. However, to properly regulate the flow of the stream it will be necessary to have regulating gates at the Schoharie gate house which will cost approximately $10,000, and that at present the city of New York is not in a financial condition to erect these gates.

He further states that he proposes to recommend to the Mayor of New York city and the Board of Estimates and Apportionment the authorization of funds for the installation of such gates as soon as the condition of the city will justify such action.

Installation of such gates will properly regulate the flow.

The Petition

The petition which was forwarded to Commissioner Dietz is:

To the Board of Water Supply of the City of New York:

The undersigned respectfully petition you to make such change in the gates at the Gilboa Reservoir that the flow of water through the Shandaken Tunnel into the Esopus Creek may be regulated.

The Esopus is one of the best trout streams in the State and before the waters from the Gilboa Reservoir were poured into it, through the Shandaken Tunnel, hundreds of sportsmen came yearly to the villages along the Esopus to fish this stream, spending large sums of money for board at the hotels and boarding houses and other substantial sums in such villages for fishing tackle and equipment, guides, travel and personal conveniences and needs.

The regulated flow of such waters into the Esopus has spoiled the fishing to such an extent that a great many sportsmen who formerly came here to fish no longer do so, although many of them state frankly that they would come as formerly if the flow of such waters were regulated so that proper fishing conditions could exist.

The proprietors of hotels, boarding houses and stores and many other business interests in the villages along the Esopus have suffered, and are suffering financial injury from the unregulated flow of such waters into the Esopus and the consequent refusal of the sportsmen to come to fish as formerly.

The present method of turning the water off and on, as well as a full flow, are equally unsatisfactory as a substitute for a regulated flow.

Each of the undersigned is interested in having steps taken to end the present improper and unsatisfactory conditions either because his business interests have been injured by such unregulated flow, or as a sportsman who desires to fish and whose interests, financial or otherwise, are prejudiced by such conditions.

Conboy and Woman Found Shot to Death

New York, Aug. 1 (AP).—Robert L. Conboy, long sought in connection with a machine gun murder, has met death by gunfire himself. So, too, has the platinum haired woman with whom he occupied a dingy flat in which was found counterfeiting equipment and a little black book hinting at blackmail reaching into high places.

A window shade flapping in the wind and revealing a light that burned constantly for two days and two nights caused neighbors to call police yesterday. Breaking in, they found the man and woman dead. Police decided after a thorough examination that Conboy, hunted for four years for the murder of a policeman in Toledo, O., during a holdup, had fired two bullets into the body of the woman and then killed himself.

In the room was a press on which counterfeit five dollar bills were printed. Bogus notes were laid out carefully on blotting paper to dry. Secret service agents said the bills were "remarkably good" imitations. There were various chemicals and plates.

The little black book was said to contain the names of two United States Senators among many other prominent persons. No names were made public. The officers also found several photographs in each of which the dead woman was shown with a different man in poses and in settings that lent the photograph to use for blackmail. In each picture the face of the man was distinct, and it was apparent the photographs were taken without the subject's knowledge.

Quattrocci Dead At Hollywood Inn

Catskill, N. Y., Aug. 1 (AP)—Paul Quattrocci, who was Jack "Legs" Diamond's "number two man" during the reign of the late gangster in Greene county, died early today after a lingering illness.

Death came to Quatrocci at his Hollywood Inn, a mountain night club, where Jack Diamond spent much of his time before he was murdered by unknown gunmen last winter in an Albany rooming house. Quattrocci was 34.

Since his chief's death, Quattrocci had lived quietly, running his club. He tried to rebuild the Diamond beer trade which had been dwindling when "Legs" was killed, but without success.

Long believed by Federal authorities on the verge of death, he never served a two-year sentence in Federal prison which was given him in New York two years ago when he and Diamond were tried for conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws and ownership of a still. Diamond's sentence of four years also was not served, because of an appeal.

Quattrocci's wife was at his bedside when he died. He had no children. The body will be sent to Brooklyn, where he lived until he came here seven years ago, and where he will be buried by his wife, his mother and three sisters. His father is dead.

Fowler Takes Title To Hardware Store

Hardware Business Established by Late C. E. Hasbrouck Taken Over by Eugene H. Fowler, Who Had Been With the Business for Past 34 Years.

Eugene H. Fowler, who for the past 34 years had been an employe at the C. E. Hasbrouck hardware store at 20 East Strand, today took title to the business and will continue it. The business was established many years ago on the Strand and has been conducted by the late C. E. Hasbrouck until his death recently.

Mr. Fowler during the many years he has been connected with the hardware business has become thoroughly acquainted with the business in all its details. Mr. Fowler plans to carry on the successful business policies inaugurated by Mr. Hasbrouck, and will continue to carry the same high grade merchandise.

There are few men in Kingston or vicinity who are more familiar with the hardware business than Mr. Fowler, and there is no question but that he will make a success of the business he has taken over.

Walked in Sleep, Arm Broken

New York, Aug. 1 (AP)—Olga Zoni, 11, walked in her sleep right out of a first floor window early today and in the fall her arm was broken.

Two Burned to Death

Red Hook, N. Y., Aug. 1 (AP)—May Evard, 47, and James Wilson, 50, were burned to death yesterday when fire destroyed a cottage at Spring Lake, near here, while they were asleep. The owner of the cottage, Milton Craft, was on a sleeping porch and was not hurt.

WOODSTOCK NATIVE SON MAKES HIT AS AN ACTOR.

Of outstanding interest to patrons of the Maverick Theatre, Woodstock, during the current presentation of the DeWitt Newing mystery drama, "The Quick and the Dead," is the success attained by Robert Elwyn, a Woodstock Thespian making his first professional stage appearance. The youthful Mr. Elwyn was given a great round of applause for his entertaining portrayal of the comedy role which he carries in the play.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Elwyn of Woodstock and for the past year has been studying at the New York School of the Theatre. In May he appeared in one of the principal roles in Herman Bahr's "The Concert," presented at Roerich Hill. He appeared as co-author and director, with Agnes Schleicher, last summer in a presentation of "Hansel and Gretel," based on the Grimm fairy tale.

TO HOLD COLONIAL FAIR AT PORT EWEN, AUGUST 3

In keeping with the bi-centennial of George Washington's birthday that is being celebrated this year, the Dorcas Society of the Port Ewen Reformed Church is giving its annual fair a distinctly colonial atmosphere.

As last year, the fair will be held at Vanderveer's Grove on the corner of Broadway and Stout avenue in Port Ewen. It will be held on Wednesday, August 3, in the afternoon and evening. In the event of rain, the fair will be held on the next clear day.

There will be a decided colonial flavor to the many attractions. Ladies in flowered flounces and lace kerchiefs will preside over the colonial shops where may be purchased gifts, trinkets, and useful attractive articles usually included in the term, "fancy articles", sweet as they were termed in 1732, the mystery booth where one may purchase "a pig in a poke," for a negligible sum, and will serve one a most delectable supper of boiled ham, potato salad, baked beans, cabbage salad, pickles, raised biscuits, apple pie, cake, and coffee at 5 p. m. at tables spread invitingly beneath the trees.

Of interest to history students will be the news that Paul Revere will be here in person with that horse which carried him on that famous ride. And of greater interest to the kiddies is that they may ride upon this famous pony.

There will be feats of skill where all may try ring toss or the accuracy of their aim in knocking down bottles with baseballs.

And then for that "snack to enjoy between the acts" of the entertainment there will be hot dogs, ice cream, and soft drinks.

The entertainment to be given at 8 p. m. will be in two portions, the first to be placed in the past, and the last, the present. The attractions will include the Port Ewen Fife, Drum and Bugle Corps, dances of past and present, by a group of girls, solo dances, songs by a mixed chorus, tenor and soprano solos as well as a comedy act. The program follows:

I. Selections—Port Ewen Fife, Drum and Bugle Corps.

II. Musical Prologue—Mary Polhemus, accompanied by Cleon Elsworth.

III. Songs and Dances of the Past:

1. Kentucky Home ——Chorus
2. Long, Long Ago—Soprano solo, Mrs. Scott Vining, assisted by the chorus.
3. Dance—"Minuet". Viola Houghtaling, Hester Sleight, Dorothy Groves, Carolyn Munn, Elizabeth DeWitt, Pauline and Irene Doyle, Olive Munson, Edna Gavit and Amy Munn.
4. "Old-Fashioned Garden"—Mrs. Edmund Moore, soprano solo, assisted by the chorus.
5. Violin Solo—Medley of Old-Fashioned Songs, Joseph Middagh, Jr.
6. "Quilting Party"—Pantomine with chorus.

IV. Transition from Past to Present—"Home Sweet Home"—"Home" chorus.

V. Songs and Dances of the Present:

1. Skating Dance—Jessie Lorren.
2. Tenor solos—Bert Huth of Esopus.
3. "Carolina Moon" ——Chorus
   "Old Wyoming" ——Chorus
4. Novelty—"Tom Thumb's Drum" —Group of 10 girls who were featured in the "Minuet".
5. "Till We Meet Again"—Chorus.

VI. Selections—Port Ewen Fife, Drum and Bugle Corps.

Plane "Skin" Part Of Frame.

Berkeley, Cal., (AP).—A new type of metal alloy airplane construction known as monocoque is being used in a 10 passenger plane being built at the University of California. Thin sheet metal is used for the "skin" of the plane and it is a structural unit instead of merely a fabric. There are no spars, beams or braces.

SHOKAN.

Shokan, July 30—The wiener roast which the local fire company has planned for Tuesday evening, August 2, will be a public affair and everyone is cordially invited to come out and have a good time. An exhibition of the firemen's new truck will be an added feature of the occasion.

The following people from out of town are stopping at J. S. Moore's Orchard Lunch camp in the west end of the village: Mr. and Mrs. Walter Galbraith and Walter Galbraith, Jr., of Westchester county; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Peterson, Mrs. Edward Peterson and children, and Mrs. William Peterson and children of New York city; Miss Henrietta Bonatz and Mrs. Richard E. Bonatz, of Fairview, N. J.; Miss Madeline and Charles Rabbit of Westchester. Others who spent the week-end at Mr. Moore's were: Edward and William Peterson, August Nunner and Richard E. Bonatz.

Mrs. Frank Sharwell of Norfolk, N. J., is spending the summer at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Bell, and sister, Miss Chloe Bell.

Those big, heavily-loaded cauliflower trucks are beginning to pass through Shokan en-route from Delaware county to the city markets. What with all the milk, gasoline and vegetable trucks using the north boulevard, pleasure vehicles have a hard time making much speed.

L. T. Watrous, the well known radio man of Kingston, was a business caller in the village on Thursday.

Those who have been wishing for a fall of rain sufficient for raising the springs and wells may derive a little comfort from the recollection that August 1, 1889, was the sixth day in succession that it rained. And that wasn't all; the third and fifth days of the month also were very damp; in fact there was so much wet weather that grapes, tomatoes and other crops rotted on the vines.

There was a happy family reunion at Cool Breeze Farm, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph DeWitt, on Sunday, July 24, the occasion being the birthday of Mrs. DeWitt. Among those present at the birthday gathering were the following persons from out of town: Mrs. Jessie Mecrink of Washington; Mr. and Mrs. Stokes of Chichester; Mrs. Frieda Wilbur Watson, Miss Gertrude Wilbur, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Wilbur, and Mr. and Mrs. Foster Carl, all of Lake Hill; Mrs. Brown and daughter of New York city, and Mrs. C. G. Fuller, accompanied by a party of friends from New York. Mrs. DeWitt, who is a member of the well known Wilbur family of the town of Woodstock, has many friends in Olive and Woodstock.

James Snead of Kingston, Martin J. Every of Traver Hollow and Frank Roosa of Brodhead were in the village Thursday looking over properties in connection with the New York city tax hearing.

Elbert Van Keuren of Kingston, who is in the furniture finishing business, was in Shokan last Thursday.

Recent guests at Winchell's Shokan House include the following: Mrs. Charles Allgeir and son of Syosset, L. I.; Miss Esther Carlson, Brooklyn; George Diefenbach, Hicksville, L. I.; Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Salsbury and son and Miss K. E. Anderson, all of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The tennis court at the community playground near the Reformed Church is being used almost daily by local devotees of the sport.

City Finally Selects Mayor.

Merced, Cal., (AP).—This city now has a mayor—John R. Corbett. But it took 166 ballots by the town council over a period of several months to reach an agreement.

Preston's Soldiers "Eating Like Kings"

That the 156th Field Artillery, New York National Guard, is having one of its best camp tours ever spent at Pine Camp, Jefferson county, is reported by Ken Van Etten of Cedar street, former supply sergeant of Headquarters Battery, who returned Sunday from a two-day visit at the military reservation.

Ex-sergeant Van Etten told a Freeman reporter that the Kingston soldiers are having a better time than ever and that the "eats" being served far surpass any rations that he ever saw served during his several enlistments in the National Guard.

The soldiers in Headquarters Battery, Captain C. S. Preston commanding, are eating like kings, says Van Etten, who dined with that outfit on Sunday. Johnny "Feathers" Featherstone, first cook, and his assistants, served the following menu for dinner: Fricassee chicken, egg dumplings, mashed potatoes, mashed turnips, pumpkin pie, bread and butter, coffee and iced tea.

A week ago Sunday, Featherstone gave the boys a turkey dinner with all the fixin's, which all enjoyed. The meal gave the soldiers plenty of vigor to carry out their regular duties and the fact that they have been soldiering exceptionally well ever since is due greatly to the culinary prowess of "Feathers." Johnny formerly cooked in the Navy.

Van Etten expects to reenlist in the Guard for next year and without a doubt will join the outfit for which Featherstone is the cook.

He made the trip from Kingston to Pine Camp, a distance of more than 250 miles, in seven hours and returned in seven and a half. John Long of Hasbrouck avenue accompanied him.

HUDSON VALLEY GRAPE GROWERS ASSN. TO MEET.

Milton, Aug. 1.—Wednesday, August 3, has been set as the date for the annual meeting of the Hudson Valley Grape Growers Association, Inc. The meeting will be held in St. James Hall, Milton, in the afternoon at 2:30. The annual election of officers will take place. Three directors are to be chosen to take the places of W. Y. Velie of Marlborough and Newburgh, and Melvin Hurd of Clintondale, and Benjamin Chilima of Marlborough, whose terms of office have expired. A director will also be elected to replace H. E. Saulpaugh, who has resigned his office.

REPEALERS DELUGE PANTHERS 17-1 IN SATURDAY GAME.

Jimmy Morgan's Repealers were too much for James Banion Fitzgerald and his Black Panthers Saturday afternoon at the Athletic Field, where a crowd of several hundred saw the highly touted negro aggregation go down to defeat by the score of 17 to 1. Fitzgerald, who before the game was sure the Panthers would show the Repealers a thing or two, remarked after the contest that "my men were too lazy to play."

Antique Statue Stolen.

A notation on the blotter at police headquarters states that the iron statue of a colored boy that for many years stood in the yard of the late Senator Jacob Rice on Wurts street, has been stolen. The police are lending every effort to find the statue, which was probably removed by someone valuing it as an antique. It is of the type used as hitching posts years ago when horses and carriages were used instead of automobiles.

WOODSTOCK-BEARSVILLE CONSOLIDATION CRITICISED

Editor,
Kingston Freeman,
Kingston, N. Y.
Sir:

In your issue of July 29, 1932, you have printed an item which might be considered in newspaper circles as a news item. As I am not at all at home with the vernacular of the press the phrase might be improper. However, I am sufficiently well informed as a tax-payer in the town of Woodstock to label that item "publicity," thereby placing it in its proper category.

Really conscientious publicity agents or managers, whichever you wish to term them, have a keen desire for sticking to facts: it is, I believe, considered ethical. It is with this in mind that I take exception to some of the statements found in the column "Bearsville and Woodstock Schools Hold Joint Meet."

In the opening paragraph your informant has displayed exceptional lack of knowledge of the geographical locations of the various school districts within the town of Woodstock. Bearsville School District is not District No. 1. It is District No. 3. Again in the opening paragraph your informant would lead one to believe that a census or other survey had been made in these two districts thereby establishing the number of eligible voters residing therein. To further emphasize this you state that in Woodstock "about 85 per cent of electors have signed the petition arguing the change, while 45 signatures * * * means the consent of approximately 50 per cent of the electors" of Bearsville. Exactly how many elibible voters are there in each district and what is the authority for the 100 per cent figure. Then the wording of the petition which you refer to as "arguing the change." The petition requests the Commissioner to lay out a district, which, permit me, is miles from asking the Commissioner to establish a district. Might it not be true that many people who have signed the petition were under the belief that he or she was merely requesting the state's advice as to the practicability of the district and after having secured that advice fully expecting to exercise that privilege established by precedent: the privilege of casting his or her ballot at an election.

Your "ad" also states that "There would be eliminated also, transportation and tuition charges to Kingston High School * * *." Why, then, include transportation in that purely arbitrary "Possible Budget"? Oh! Possible, what prospecti are issued in thy name! And, if a High School is intended, why not provide for teacher's salaries? Six "Outside Teachers" are included in the possible expenditures which we understand as referring to a teacher for each of the six remaining districts within the town, excepting that district within which the proposed school would be erected. Why, again, say that the proposed Centralized District is for two districts only, Bearsville and Woodstock, when the provision has been made for the remaining five?

And the budget! The framers omitted entirely the maintenance of the Board of Education as well as such items as insurance, collector's fees and the incidental expense incurred in maintaining the schools in five or six other districts. The Board of Education, those five hale fellows who would administer education to the six districts and appoint a collector and clerk. Won't they incur expenses? Certainly, they'll require a few pennies for postage, a few more for stationery and some for clerk hire. But will they serve five years for nothing. Are these expenditures included in the "Possible Budget?"

Regarding the tax angle of the question: you quote Mr. Andrews as publicly admitting a tax increase and qualifying his admission by stating that it would be very slight. Taxpayers interpretation of "slight" varies. Mr. Andrews bases his qualification upon the State Aid item appearing in the receipts section of the budget, which is, according to the statement, mandatory. Assume that a majority of the rural or other public schols in our state yield to centralization. State aid is mandatory, it is, therefore, not decreased. Yet with this increased demand for aid facing it the State Department applies for and receives an increased appropriation. Who provides the money for the appropriation? Whether it is termed Land Tax, School Tax or Highway Tax it has always been and will always remain tax and means that the tax-payers must furnish the money needed for the increased appropriation. And when we speak of averages, as the proposed budget does in mentioning the reduction of taxes, isn't it true that by using an average the reduction is obtained, whereas, if the districts were treated individually only one or two districts would benefit?

Very truly yours,
HARRY LANE.

Woodstock, N. Y.,
July 30, 1932.

FUTILE "THIRD DEGREE".

Referring to the latest case of an accused prisoner being killed by "over-enthusiastic" police in administering the "third degree," the New York Herald Tribune interposes a calm remark that settles a lot of foolish argument.

It is argued by many otherwise level-headed citizens that prisoners subjected to brutal inquisitions are mostly "bad eggs" anyway, who deserve what they get from the police; that they have doubtless committed other crimes just as bad, even if not those of which they are accused; and that often violence is the only way to drag the truth out of them and insure punishment.

Such wrong-thinking citizens might be reminded that these have been the arguments of the Spanish Inquisition and every other system of torturing accused persons to make them confess; that confessions when obtained under such conditions are usually worthless, because the victims may say anything to escape their torture; that such methods are especially opposed to Anglo-Saxon principles of fair play and to the constitutional rights guaranteed in this country. But this one blunt statement of fact may carry more weight with those who seek practical results: "The most efficient police force in the world, the English, does not even question a prisoner." Moreover, "In the most efficient detective forces in America, in Boston, Philadelphia and Cincinnati, it has been abandoned."

VON GRONAU'S MAIL ROUTE.

Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau, German aviator, has the ocean-crossing habit. The other day, with three companions, he set his flying boat down neatly in the harbor at Montreal, completing his third flight from Europe to North America by the Arctic route. This is not a stunt flight. It is not even experimental in the sense of testing flying conditions over the North Atlantic. Von Gronau is blazing a mail route between Europe and the Pacific Coast of North America.

Iceland, Greenland and Labrador make nice stepping stones for hopping the Atlantic. From Montreal the Germans plan to go to Detroit, Chicago, Milwaukee, north again to Winnipeg, and then on across to the Pacific Coast, taking their time about it and carefully studying flying conditions and air mail possibilities all the way.

There are numerous tentative plans for air mail service across the Atlantic. One or more of them may be worked out successfully before long and begin service before the public has ceased to think it all visionary. Where the mail goes, passengers may eventually go easily, too. There should be some pleasantly cool vacation possibilities up that way.

TREASURE STILL SAFE.

The much-published hunt for pirate's treasure on Cocos Island has failed, just as all previous efforts are supposed to have done. Lieut. Denis Rooke, a famous British flyer, hired to survey the island by airplane, sailed away in disgust after living for weeks on wild pigs, cocoanuts and sour bread. The men remaining are ill and irritable. As matters stand, there is no prospect of discovering any pirate gold, with "inexperienced crews roaming all over the island, lugging the metalophone and batteries and equipment to impossible places on the hilltops, instead of near the beach where the pirates would have buried their chests."

"The Cocos Island treasure hunt is about to burst," he says, "leaving thousands of disappointed stockholders." Think of thousands of stockholders in such a quest. Truly romance so over-commercialized deserves defeat. It would be a pity if the great treasure had been found. That would be an end of the matter. It is worth a great deal more where it is—or isn't—as a lure for treasure-seekers and a stimulant to the imagination of a prosaic age. Modern life needs what few romantic assets it has left, of which a belief in lost treasure is one of the most potent.

MACHINES AND MEN ON FARMS.

In the good old days of the scythe and flail, observes the National Industrial Conference Board, it took 60 hours of labor for a man to harvest and thresh an acre of wheat. The self-binder and stationary threshing machine cut the time to about one-tenth of that. Now with the "combine" the man-labor per acre is reduced to an average of one hour. Here is a labor displacement of 98 per cent or more. No wonder it takes fewer farmers to feed the nation.

These observations, however, only apply to the great western wheat fields, which with all their extent are really a rather small fraction of the whole cultivated area. It is a familiar error to over-estimate the importance of wheat in the agricultural scheme, because it is a "cash crop," easily transported and stored and more readily negotiable in world markets than other crops. With all the mechanization of American farms, it still takes a lot of labor on the average diversified farm—labor which still has to be done largely as personal work with hand tools.

A HOLIDAY OR VACATION.

Mental exhaustion, brain strain from overwork does not occur one in a thousand times when it is blamed for causing "nervous breakdown." The apparent mental incapacity, inability to continue to do mental work is nearly always the result, not of actual intellectual effort or mental work, but of anxiety or other depressing emotion. This is amply proven in the sudden recovery of persons complaining of "brain fag," who had limited their mental work to one hour a week, when the cause of their worry had been removed.

The above statement comes from Dr. E. Farquar Buzzard. Instead of complete physical and mental rest in cases of mental fatigue or staleness, he advises recreation according to the interests of the individual, the pursuit of art, science, or literature, participation in sport or games. These all demand mental activity and give their beneficial effects from the fact that the interest and action is changed for the time being. The player of a game, for instance, is refreshed by following his favorite ball because his center of interest is altered; other recreations take place in his mind owing to problems entirely different from those used in his regular work.

I spoke before of a prominent financier who from mental effort and anxiety, reached a state of nervous exhaustion, so extreme that he gave the most foolish instructions regarding buying and selling securities. Instead of giving him complete rest, mental and physical, he was taken out of the city, and from morning till night was made to walk, to dig, to do hard gymnasium work so that he perspired freely, ate ravenously, and slept soundly. His program was just eat, work, sweat, bathe and sleep. Once a day he was allowed one hour of golf. He was back to normal mentally and in splendid shape physically in a few months.

You are considering a holiday, a vacation. What is likely to give you the best results?

A complete change from your work or routine; doing one or more of the things you like to do—fish, read, travel—for your mental relaxation, and swim, play golf, walk, for physical recreation, should bring you back to your work, refreshed mentally, and strengthened physically.

Some cases of mental exhaustion need complete rest, mental and physical, but most do well by change of scene and by physical exercise or work.

The Faithful Cheat

BY RUBY M. AYRES

SYNOPSIS: Sondra Merriman's brother-in-law, Ben, tells her she must leave his home when her sister Flora runs away from Ben. Sondra has no future plans. She hopes that Mark Merriman, to whom she is secretly married, will make his fortune in the Congo. Her friend John Anderson, has recently seemed distant.

Chapter 19

FIGHTING GOSSIP

"YOUR sister is to blame for this," Lomax told Sondra. "She's chosen to leave me, and make me a laughing-stock. Well, now I wash my hands of the pair of you."

Sondra found her voice with an effort.

"Where am I to go? Who do you think will want me when—when—"

"When you're no longer living with a rich brother-in-law!" he finished for her. "Well, that's your business. You've been lucky to live here so long. I never wanted you—it was Flora who insisted that you stay. Please sign this acknowledgment."

Something cold seemed to be creeping round Sondra's heart.

She wanted to laugh and push the check away; she wanted to tell this man that she could do without him and his charity, but she knew the folly of such an action.

"Your sister has chosen to make me a laughing stock; well, now I wash my hands of the pair of you," Ben said.

She had no money—nowhere to go. Lomax was probably right when he suggested that few people would want her when the truth was known.

Of course there was the story-book solution of going out and finding a job—but what sort of a job? What could she do?

She felt as if she had come to the world's end, as she stood there staring blankly at her brother-in-law's grim face.

No wonder Flora had hated him.

Lomax said again, "I'm in a hurry—there's a lot to see to. Kindly sign this."

Sondra signed it; she felt as if she stood by looking coldly on at her other self slowly writing her name at the foot of the formal receipt which Lomax had drawn up.

Twenty-five hundred dollars! She suddenly remembered that she owed John Anderson more than that amount.

Once or twice lately her conscience had stirred uneasily at the memory but she had always soothed it with the vague belief that some day she would be able to repay him.

Some day! . . . some day in another existence then—certainly not in this.

Lomax pushed back his chair and rose.

"You can stay till Friday if you like," he said bluntly, as if she was a servant in his employ whom he had dismissed. "That will give you time to look round; it's only Tuesday now."

Sondra turned dumbly away, and he said irascibly:

"Don't you want the check?"

She took it up with apathetic fingers and walked out of the room. Up in her own room she stood staring out of the window.

"You can stay till Friday—that will give you time to look round—"

There was Beatrice, of course, and that month's holiday she had been invited to share, but would even that hold good when Beatrice knew of her helpless position?

There was John Anderson, but she felt that now she would rather die than appeal to him; besides what could he do for her? He could not marry her—even supposing he still wished to and they were both free—then suddenly she remembered Mark.

How strange that he should be the last refuge to occur to her.

Yes, she could send him a cable and say that she was joining him at once, but the thought brought her no joy; she could only remember what Anderson had said:

"It's no country for a woman like you; you would hate it. Flies and heat and discomforts. . . ."

Sondra wrung her hands.

"What can I do? What can I do?"

She unlocked a drawer in her writing table and took out Mark's portrait—his eyes smiled back at her questioningly.

She tried to remember the happy hours they had spent together. But it seemed so long ago—almost like a play she had once sat through and enjoyed, and had begun to forget.

He was so many miles away . . . and yet he was her husband, and her place was with him.

She stood for a long time staring at his pictured face and slowly it seemed to grow into the face of a stranger.

If she went out to him . . . the thought snapped and she let the photograph fall back into the drawer as she whispered the truth to herself at last, "I don't want to go. . . ."

And yet it was only a few weeks since she had stood on the platform at the pier and felt as if her life were at an end.

"Am I mad?" she asked herself in despair. "Why don't I love him any more? Why don't I want to go to him?"

The telephone rang sharply and she crossed the room to take down the receiver.

It was Beatrice, girlish and frilly as ever in voice and manner.

"Darling, is it true that Flora's left poor Ben? I've heard such wild rumors. And whom has she gone with? . . . Of course I've denied everything everybody has said, but do tell me—"

Sondra spoke with an effort.

"There's nothing to tell. She's only gone to the South of France for a holiday, and Ben is going away on business. We are shutting the house up for a time, that's all—" she managed a laugh. "What nonsense people do talk, don't they?"

"Darling, I'm so thankful—" Beatrice was not in the least deceived, but she pretended to be. "It would have been so frightful for you, wouldn't it, if it had been true? Whatever would you have done? And where are you going as it is?"

"I shall stay with friends, and then later on I shall be going with you, to Massachusetts.

"Darling, it's too sad—but you know we're not going after all! Mumsie's cut up rough about going north—she never was keen, and so the whole thing is off. I'm so frightfully sorry."

"You needn't mind on my account," Sondra said lightly. "I shall be able to accept another invitation now, one I meant to refuse. But I'm sorry for your sake—aren't you disappointed?"

"Well, not really," Beatrice always underlined her words when she was particularly insincere. (Copyright, 1932, by Ruby M. Ayres)

Bad news of Mark comes to Sondra in the next installment.

"CRASHLESS" PLANE CHEATS OWNER IN ITS SALE

Hopkinsville, Ky., (AP).—Charles Laverne had a streak of bad luck. He agreed to crash a 16-year-old airplane for the benefit of movie news reel men.

Repeatedly he went aloft and brought the plane roughly to earth. Each time it refused to crash and he finally gave it up as a bad job.

But that was not all. He had agreed to sell the plane to Tom Lenn for $50, a good price for a wrecked ship. Lenn got plane, sound and whole, for $50.

Lion Kill Heavy.

San Francisco, (AP).—In the first six months of 1932, the state fish and game commission reported 159 mountain lions had been killed in California. Twenty-five of the beasts were brought down in June.

ESOPUS

Esopus, July 30—The Ladies' Aid of the M. E. Church of Esopus will hold a clambake on August 24.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Genoung had company over the week-end from Hobart.

Mr. and Mrs. Ovid Baker from New Jersey spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. A. Smith.

The Ladies' Aid will hold its regular business meeting at the home of Mrs. J. Rothery. All members are requested to be prepared as arrangements will be made for the clambake.

Pete Scheid and two daughters spent Wednesday in New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. Shew will start on their vacation August 2.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS—REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

by John Hix

Milo, of Croton, strongman of ancient Greece, successfully defended his Olympic wrestling 24 years—six Olympiads. He likewise was crowned victor in wrestling at six Pythian games. His feats of strength won him fame throughout the civilized world, and he gained an all time place in the strongman's hall of fame when he carried an ox on his shoulders through the stadium at Olympia. Milo lived in the sixth century B. C.

Tuffy McGuinnes, New York welterweight, has the doubtful distinction of having been out for nearly 60 hours—or for a count of more than 2,000,000. In a fight with Vincent Serici in Madison Square Garden, in March, 1932, McGuinnes was knocked out at 9:30 Friday night. He did not come to until Sunday morning at 9 o'clock. McGuinnes did not remember ever having fought Serici.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS. . . .

C. C. Johns, of Corona, Calif., reports that his home town's principal street is without an end. Built originally as a race track, the street forms a perfect circle about the business section of the city. A stranger in Corona once drove 410 miles without getting off the street. Finally a police officer stopped him and directed him out of town.

Lay Groundwork For Debt Revision

Paris, Aug. 1 (AP)—Representatives of the United States and France were preparing here today to lay the groundwork for understandings which would pave the way for America's consideration of revision of war debts.

Walter E. Edge, American ambassador, planned rapid negotiation of a commercial treaty with France and it was announced that negotiations between the two countries would be opened soon to try to find a formula for disarmament, with special attention to a reduction of the size of the French army.

These two questions, the United States was understood to have represented to the French government, provided the proper means of approach to a revision of the French debt to the United States, but it was explained that no official pressure would be brought upon France to disarm.

On the other hand, France had consented to let the debt question rest for a while, probably until after the presidential election in the United States. Her anxiety has not lessened, however, to know whether there is a good prospect that the debts will be reduced to the level of the Lausanne reparations settlement.

The immediate disarmament problem is to find the basis for calculating the limit of effective troops which would be acceptable to the United States, France and Great Britain, and to study the objections of Premier Edouard Herriot to President Hoover's plan to reduce armaments one-third.

The premier held a conference Saturday with Ambassador Edge and Norman H. Davis, member of the American delegation to the arms conference after the conference Davis and Senator Claude A. Swanson of Virginia, his colleague on the disarmament delegation, left for the United States.

Foot Specialist Here Wednesday

In response to numerous requests, P. Lipton, the expert from the New York staff of Dr. William M. Scholl, will again be at the Greenwald shoe store, 286 Fair street, on Wednesday, August 3. Mr. Lipton was present at the special demonstration on on how to have foot comfort, held at the Greenwald store June 3, but with the limited time it was impossible to give the utmost attention to everyone on that occasion. Mr. Greenwald states that those who attend the demonstration August 3 will receive information about their feet that will be of lifetime importance to them.

FAMILY REUNION HELD AT THE INDIAN SPRING

Wallkill, Aug. 1—A family picnic and reunion was held at Indian Springs on Sunday. The members of the party enjoyed swimming and games. A very delicious luncheon was served at noon. Among the guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Snider, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Snider, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lineare, and Irving Snider of Wallkill. The out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Funbie and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Snider of Astoria, Long Island. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Beer and daughter Joyce of Jersey City, N. Y., Mrs. Mary Allen of New York city and Mr. and Mrs. John Lane of Ossining.

Mrs. Ella Goodgion has returned home after a visit to Walden at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Watkins.

LEIBHARDT

Leibhardt, Aug. 1 — Preaching services will be held in the M. E. Church Wednesday evening, August 3, conducted by the Rev. Mr. Hasting of Kerhonkson.

Mr. and Mrs. Alsen Chrissy and Mrs. Amelia Markle of Rochester center were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob H. Baker of Mettacahonts on Sunday, July 24.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Palen of Glenford with several city guests enjoyed an auto ride through this place last Sunday.

The Ladies' Aid meeting will be held on Tuesday afternoon, August 23, at 2 o'clock when the ladies will make plans for the annual hot chicken supper to be held in September.

John Redolfie of Krumville, who has been very ill at his home for a few days the past week, was removed to the Kingston Hospital the past week by Dr. Williams of Kerhonkson for treatment.

Immigration Men Held Hearings

Edward D. Zucker, inspector in charge, and Inspector Frank McClelland of the Federal Immigration Bureau, held the first of a series of hearings at the city hall this morning. Through the efforts of Mayor Carey it had been arranged to have the hearings held here so that applicants would not have to make a trip to New York city or Albany with their witnesses. The hearings were held in the council chambers at the city hall and about ten applicants were afforded hearings.

The hearings were for aliens who had been so long in this country that they were unable to establish the fact that they were eligible to file their first naturalization papers. The immigration department had no record of their ever arriving in this country.

The hearings were held to give the applicants the opportunity of establishing the fact that they had been in this country prior to June 3, 1921.

DOMINION PRESS BRITAIN ON TRADE PREFERENCES

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 1 (AP)—Heavy and open pressure was brought upon Great Britain's delegates to the Imperial Conference today to force the hand of the mother country on what tariff preferences she is willing to give.

N. C. Havenga of the South African delegation, in a blunt statement yesterday, virtually called upon the British delegation to quit talking about favors already shown the dominions and to get down to facts.

The statement linked South Africa with Australia in the movement to bring the conference down to brass tacks. Coming together with the news that the national government in Great Britain lost two by-elections at home last week, the South African announcement was reported to have set the British delegates to pondering.

Havenga charged that Stanley Baldwin did not give a true picture of the situation when he declared last week that the union of South Africa had a favorable trade balance against the United Kingdom.

Many delegates already have begun to talk of leaving here not later than August 15 and there was evidence today that the sub-committees were preparing to get down to serious trading.

Chief among the problems were:

Canada's insistence on adequate protection for her own "efficient" home industries, and the concessions she is willing to make in lower tariffs on incoming British coal, steel products and textiles in return for preference rates for her own exports of wheat, lumber, copper, meats and fruits.

The reluctance of the British delegation to raise a cry of "food taxation" at home by boosting the tariff wall on imports from outside the Empire in favor of intra-empire trade.

In spite of the difficulty of reaching an agreement, most of the delegates, except for those from India and the Irish Free State, were reported fearful of going home empty-handed.

RONDOUT PRESBYTERIANS TO HEAR VISITING MINISTERS

The Rev. James N. Armstrong, Jr., pastor of the Rondout Presbyterian Church, on Sunday preached his last sermon until September as he will be away on vacation during the month of August. During his absence the pulpit of the church will be supplied with visiting ministers. On Sunday, August 7, the preacher will be the Rev. James N. Armstrong, Sr., father of the pastor. On Sunday, August 14, the Rev. Dr. Charles G. Ellis, former pastor of the church, will preach. No arrangement has been made as yet for a preacher for Sunday, August 21, but on Sunday, August 28, the Rev. Dr. Frederick Stockwell will be the preacher.

WALLKILL C. E. HOLDING OPEN AIR MEETINGS.

Wallkill, Aug. 1.—The Christian Endeavor Society of the Wallkill Reformed Church is following an annual summer custom by holding open air meetings. The first of the series was held in the village park on Sunday evening and was largely attended by local members, as well as people from the New Hurley Reformed Church. The second of the series will be held on the lawn of the church property on Sunday evening. The guests of the evening will be the young colored folks from the Guilford Bower Camp. The colored persons will have charge of the program and promises to be of a very interesting nature. All are invited to attend these services.

Potatoes and Tobacco

These two plants are related, both members of the nightshade family, to which the tomato, eggplant and pepper also belong. The potato is native to the mountainous districts of tropical and sub-tropical America from Chile to Mexico, and the original home of tobacco was probably roughly the same region. The potato was cultivated and used for food by the Indians long before the discovery of America, and they smoked tobacco in their ceremonies from remotest antiquity, so there is no way of knowing when either of the plants was first put to use by human beings.

Tribute to Educator

The quotation about Mark Hopkins at one end of a log and a boy at the other end being a university, is attributed to President James A. Garfield, who was a student for two years (1554 to 1856) at Williams college under Mark Hopkins, a famous American educator who was president of that college for 36 years. A great admirer of Doctor Hopkins' method of teaching, he declared that "Mark Hopkins at one end of a log and a boy at the other constitutes a university."

The Charm of Madrid

Transporting a Bull to the Madrid Bullring.

(Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.)

MADRID, Spain's political press box where it was recently announced that Catalonia was voted greater autonomy by the Spanish cortes, is one of the newest and most modern capitals of western Europe.

To the traveler who spends a few hours or a few years in the Spanish capital, the great avenue, Gran Avenida de la Libertad, is the city's outstanding feature. It is one of the finest boulevards in Europe.

The most imposing of the governmental palaces, museums, and hotels face this noble boulevard, which runs north to south along the eastern edge of the city. On its fringe lies an exclusive residential section and the large park known in the old days as Buen Retiro. Were the foreign visitor to linger in the capital no longer than 24 hours, he could still see much of its throbbing life on this one great avenue.

The Avenida's wide, tree-lined walks for pedestrians, lying between the inner automobile and carriage highway and the outer traffic roads, are vividly alive by day and literally thronged by early evening. Rows of chairs are packed on each side of the broad walks.

Summer Madrid makes itself comfortable. All along the walks are refreshment booths. Beer is popular but has not replaced the many typical soft drinks, in favor for centuries. As you sit sipping your cold, creamy, almond-flavored horchata, up comes the boy known as the barquillero. He carries a barrel-like metal receptacle containing the sweet, rolled wafers called barquillos. You hand out a coin, spin the wheel on top of the barrel, and watch for the figure which indicates the number of wafers you will win. No ban has yet been placed on this mild form of gambling.

Army officers in brilliant uniforms, men garbed in mourning black even in midsummer, pretty, graceful, dark-haired women, sturdy, barelegged children—these and countless other types pass. Lottery sellers with strident voices, wizened peanut venders, coquettish flower sellers, cry their wares. "All the world," as the Spaniards express it, is out-of-doors.

Even with fashionables away, the majority of those who crowd the promenades are modishly dressed. The young women have bobbed hair. Upper and middle-class women wear hats. The woman of the masses scorns a "bonnet" yet her skin is free from freckles.

Fluttering of Fans.

Fans, not parasols, are the vogue. The paseos are all a flutter. It is to be regretted that continental and oriental decorations on fans are now the style, for there is nothing prettier than the old-fashioned Valencian fan decorated with typical Spanish scenes and figures.

These fans can still be found, if you will search, along with painted tiles and china with Zuloaga designs from Segovia, decorated porcelain from the ancient factory at Talavera de la Reina, Damascene ware from Toledo, linen drawn-work from the Toledan village of Lagartera, and hand-made lace from the south of Spain. The little dolls wearing regional peasant costumes are made in Madrid.

The capital's summer temperature is high, but it is a dry heat, not moist and sticky. You broil in the sun, but turn the corner, to the shady side of the street, and there is a breath of cool air from the mountains. Madrid is elevated more than 2,000 feet above sea level.

There is an abundant water supply from the Guadarramas, and in summer the streets are hosed thoroughly from four to six times a day. Systematic tree planting and park development have made a refreshing city in the midst of a scorched plain, long ago stripped of its trees. The Castilian farmers of old believed the birds to be their mortal enemies and left no haven for the winged host.

Shops close every afternoon from one or two o'clock until four or five. The dinner hour is late from our standpoint, from 8:30 to 10:30. Madrilenos know how to enjoy the magic hours of early evening.

Open-air band concerts continue until two o'clock in the morning. If you stay up to put summer Madrid to bed, you will meet the huge, creaking, two-wheeled, hooded carts lumbering into town with country produce in round, straw-covered baskets, bound for the central market, where a hill of watermelons will soon be in evidence. Carts which come from beyond the mountains put up overnight in the old part of town, at inns for all the world like the fondouks of Morocco, save that jaded mules, drowsing in the courtyard, here take the place of camels.

On the surface, Madrid is modern, continental, as beautiful in spots as Paris; but there are still old, hidden corners delightfully medieval. In this lies the great city's charm. Youngest, yet mightiest, of Iberian cities, the Spanish capital reminds one more of Buenos Aires than of any of its Latin sisters. Like the far-southern metropolis, it is not congested and is surrounded by a practically treeless agricultural region.

Facing Madrid's Gran Avenida is the gigantic building known as the palace of communications, which houses the postal and telegraph offices. This is one of the finest public buildings in the word. Among its unique features are the labeled locating maps on the outer wall just above the slots where you mail your letters. There are eight of these maps, showing different sections of Spain, with an additional letter box labeled "Army in Africa."

Outside the main post office, stamps are on sale at tobacco shops in all parts of the city. In each of these shops is a letterbox. You can also mail your letter in a box on the red and yellow tram car, if you will run after it, and be assured of quick service to the main office.

Near the post office are the national library, the archeological museum, and the museum of modern painting—all three of great interest to the student and art lover. Even more famous is the National Museum of Painting and Sculpture, better known as the Prado museum, where are hung those glorious Sixteenth, Seventeenth, and Eighteenth-century masterpieces collected by the art-loving Spanish kings.

The Botanical garden next door provides a breathing place for the poorer classes, a playground for those big-eyed, creamy-skinned children, whose beauty, vivacity, and good manners impress every traveler who visits Spain. Here even the poorest child is taught to practice the courtesies of life.

Madrid's eastern park (El Retiro) has magnificent trees and lakes and the famous "Rosaleda," or rose garden, with its three thousand and more varieties. If you keep on the driveways, you will meet, in the late afternoon, every manner of vehicle, from a smart limousine to a provincial mule-drawn carriage; but stray afoot onto the shady paths and you will find even more of interest.

In the construction of the splendid Gran Via, with its big hotels, smart shops, and department stores, more than four thousand dwellings, in a labyrinth of ancient streets in the heart of the city, were demolished. Above all other buildings in this new quarter towers the National Telephone company's steel skyscraper.

Open-Air Movies.

Moving pictures, screened in the open, attract crowds on summer nights, and by this method the telephone company is teaching the masses how to use the automatic telephone. And, speaking of the "movies," Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, and Charlie Chaplin are Madrid favorites.

The Puerta del Sol is Madrid's hub. This oblong square bears the name of a vanished gate in the one-time encircling town hall. It is the terminal station of many of the 50-odd municipal trolley lines.

In the center of the Puerta del Sol is one of the stations of the underground railway, familiarly known as the "Metro." By the surface entrance of each subway station hangs a map showing you where you are going or from where you came.

Madrid's subway carries passengers the length of the city, with shorter latitudinal lines. Riding north to Cuatro Caminos (Four Roads) at the end of the line, we find amazing building activity, big apartment houses springing up for the use of the growing middle class.

As a means of communication between towns throughout Spain, the motor omnibus has taken the place of the old-time diligence. Such buses traverse the capital, connecting it not only with near-by villages, but with far-distant cities. In recent years there has been notable improvement in national highways, especially on the main arteries from north to south.

High-wheeled carts drawn by mules or by mules and horses harnessed tandem, donkey carts and pannier-laden donkeys, their heads decorated with red woolen tassels, add a picturesque touch to the streets. The cumbersome ox cart of Old Madrid has been banished.

Platform on Ford Was Burning Merrily

A party of campers nearly caused a grief this morning on Wurts street near West Union street. Traveling in a Ford sedan bearing license number 8-L-5665 the party was bound from the north toward New York. On the rear of the Ford car two lone two by fours had been fastened to the car frame to act as a carrier for the campers equipment which had been loaded on the rear. As the car was passing through town this platform caught fire from the exhaust and was burning merrily when someone discovered the flames shooting out behind the car. The tourists were hailed and a pail of water skilfully directed extinguished the flames. Thankful for the early discovery of the fire the tourists said they had stopped in Saugerties for breakfast and at that time everything was apparently in good shape. The tent and camping equipment was not damaged the fire being confined to the home-made luggage carrier.

"Smoke" Responsible For 18 More Deaths

New York, Aug. 1 (AP)—"Smoke", the cheap, poisonous drink of the east side waterfront was held responsible by police today for 18 weekend deaths.

Feeling of genuine fear was apparent among the lotterers who have been in the habit of spending panhandled dimes for "Smoke" in the squalid dives that mark the squalid section.

The last death was that of John Bonis. He staggered into a hospital ward that he could not see. An hour later he was dead.

Detectives said they found the fear of poisoning so great among "Smoke" drinkers that many of them, having drunk the liquor, went immediately to the vicinity of the Broad Street Hospital, and loitered there, ready to seek medical help at the first indication of poisoning.

One bartender was arrested and held pending the analysis of "Smoke" which he was selling.

Held on Serious Charge.

John Watterson, 44, colored, of Gilboa, was committed to the Ulster county jail Sunday by Justice Charles H. Bennett of Saugerties to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of incest.

100,000-MILE NETWORK BASIS FOR U. S. SURVEYS

Washington (AP)—Nearly 100,000 miles of invisible but highly accurate base lines for surveying now cover most of the United States, reports Dr. William Bowie of the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey.

They furnish an accurate and standard base for measuring lots, streets, city plans, railroads and highways throughout the nation.

About 10,000 miles of such lines have been laid out by the Coast and Geodetic Survey in the last year in the following states: Texas, Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Nevada, California, Michigan, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Washington, Oregon, North Dakota, South Dakota, Arkansas, New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware and New Jersey.

Partridge in the Scriptures

Jeremiah has a striking passage about the partridge, chapter 17:11: "As the partridge sitteth on eggs and hatcheth them not; so he that getteth riches and not by right shall leave them in the midst of his days, and at his end shall be a fool." Its sense is clear enough, although the actual interpretation of it is not so very evident.

Howe Caverns, N. Y., August 1—Visitors to Howe Caverns beginning today will have the privilege of returning any time within a year and viewing the caverns without again paying the entrance fee. The new policy, which is unique in the operation of resorts, has been inaugurated to meet a popular demand.

"Thousands of visitors," says Virgil H. Clymer, general manager of the caverns, "have been so impressed and delighted with the caverns that they have come back a number of times to show their friends and to again view the inside of the earth."

"The management, desiring to extend a special courtesy to these caverns visitors, concluded to waive the entrance fee to those who make return trips after July 31, and has worked out a plan under which ever adult visitor will henceforth have an opportunity to register as a member of the Howe Cavern Club and receive a card of identification which will be honored for admission any time within a year from the date of issue."

Registrations at Howe Caverns this summer are reported as running high, indicating a growing popularity of the Empire State's great natural wonder. The innovation of making a single ticket an annual ticket seems certain to increase this popularity.

McBRIDE DRUG STORES

634 B'way. 312 Wall St.
48 No. Front St.

"Right this way, if you please, sir!"

Unless you happen to be an invited guest of the British Royal Family, the best way to "see" Windsor Castle is under the convoy of a uniformed guide. In a sing-song patter, he will tell you its history . . . point out things of interest whose full significance would escape the unattended tourist.

It also saves time and shoe-leather to use "guides" when you do your daily marketing at home. These guides are the advertisements in this paper. They tell you where, when, and the equally important "how much."

By consulting the advertisements, you know in advance what the stores have to offer. If you are pressed for time, you can do your shopping by telephone, with the newspaper before you as a definite guide. Read the advertisements . . . the big ones and the little ones.

"Step this way," the advertisements say, saving time and lost motion.

2 Injured When Cars Crash At Gas Station

The vacation trip of John Johansson of 29 West 125th street, New York city, and Bern Anderson, of 107-02 115th street, Richmond Hill, L. I., came to an abrupt stop, for the present at least, near the Rose Marie gas station, about three miles from Kingston on Route 5-W, this morning.

They were on their way to Albany, with Niagara Falls as their ultimate destination, when just as they neared the gas station, according to their story, a Ford touring car driven by John Faculnica, of 77 Bedford street, East Orange, started to make a left turn into the station. Johansson, who was driving the Ford roadster, swerved his car into the middle lane, but states that as he did so the other car again changed its course and the two crashed.

Anderson received a cut in the forehead that required stitches to close and Johansson received bruises about the face. Several people in the other car were also bruised and cut somewhat, but it is understood there were no serious injuries.

Both cars were quite badly damaged. Deputy Sheriff Albright investigated the accident, but no arrests were made.

SOUTH RONDOUT

South Rondout, Aug. 1—There will be a meeting of Hasbrouck Engine Co. in the engine house Monday evening at the usual hour.

Joseph Beetold was injured at the ball game at St. Remy on Friday evening by the ball hitting him in the ear.

Benjamin Bleitzhofer of New York is spending a few days in town.

Mrs. Fred Fox, who has been spending a couple of weeks visiting friends and relatives in New York, New Jersey and Brooklyn, has returned home.

The Rev. and Mrs. Robert Lintner and children, Virginia and Bobbie, were week-end guests of the Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Gebhard and family at the parsonage. The Rev. Mr. Lintner was formerly pastor of the M. E. Church in the village and is now of Madison, N. J.

Pilot Joseph Snyder of the dayline boat, Robert Fulton, spent Thursday and Friday at his home on Second street.

The Misses Helen and June Maurer enjoyed the week-end with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Sanford of Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Maurer, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sanford and Miss Margaret Sanford and I. Forster of Kingston are enjoying a motor trip to western New York and Lake George.

Harry Wilson, Mrs. A. Isherwood and daughter, Ruth, and John Vogel of Albany are enjoying a motor trip to Buffalo this week.

Bonnie Brae Cottage on Connelly Heights is entertaining a few out of town guests.

Francis Maurer, Jr., is spending the week at the home of his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Beshock.

GAMBLERS AT BRIDGE INTERFERRED WITH TRAFFIC

Sunday afternoon the sheriff's office was notified that a crap game was in progress across the Rondout Creek Bridge in the town of Esopus and that the players were interfering with traffic. Deputy Sheriffs Mollyneaux and McCullough went to the scene and on their approach found evidence of two crap games going on, one on the hill above the bridge and a second across the road in the woods. However, on their approach the players at one game fled while the others maintained their strong-hold but the officers found no evidence of a game in progress when they reached the scene. All that remained was a crowd of about forty men.

AUTO HITS FARM WAGON, FARM EMPLOYE INJURED

Albert Wright, employed on the farm of Chester Young at Napanoch was cut and bruised about the head and arms when the farm wagon he was driving was struck by a car driven by Sidney Hyman, a guest at the Hotel Sutta, Napanoch. Wright was driving near the Yama Dairy Farm at the time and was thrown out when the Hyman car struck the rear of his wagon. The team of horses ran away and smashed the wagon into a telephone pole and tore down a section of the guard rail along side the road, a piece of the rail going through the floor of the wagon. Hyman was arrested by Trooper Riley and arraigned before Justice B. C. West, who fined him $10.

TOMATO SHIPMENTS TO NEW YORK HAVE BEGUN

Milton, Aug. 1—Tomato shipments were made from this section the past week. Joseph Pope was the first shipper from Milton to New York. The tomatoes are shipped green and are wrapped and packed in lugs. These lugs are much smaller than crates and contain much less tomatoes but it seems to be what the buying public prefers and consequently brings better prices. The price the past week has averaged $1.25 a lug and $1.50 and $1.75 a crate.

MARY POWELL'S FIRST FLAG AGAIN FLUNG TO THE BREEZE

South Rondout, Aug. 1.—The first flag flown by the steamer Mary Powell, the old "Queen of the Hudson," was flown from the flag pole at the home of Liberty Hyde on Second street, on Sunday, and floating in the breeze looked just the same and picturesque as when flown from the mast from which it many times proudly was displayed while on trips up and down the Hudson.

MID-SEASON ADDITIONS

Fashions by Eleanor Gunn

Bedtime Stories Are Illustrated by Pajamas

New York—Pajamas, once front page stuff, are now relegated to their proper position in fashion news and are to be found among the bedtime stories, with mention also for beach wear. Commonsense women seem to have ruled pajamas off the ballroom floor. When they are entertaining at home they wear them if they so desire, but no longer do they wander about in them from night club to night club. If the truth were told, the right people never did.

Dreaming, whether it's real or just day-dreaming, is very becomingly done in pajamas. At this season they are as sheer as is consistent with their purpose, and as feminine as one likes. Such pajamas as one wears for summer siestas are cool both in effect and actuality, although they may have many dress-up details, including capelets, sashes and such things.

Daintily printed cotton voiles have been in demand for mid-summer day-dreams and one instinctively chooses cool colors with or without white. With organdie beating its own previous records for success, what more natural than that dotted Swiss should effect a re-entry and become a formidable rival of organie not only for intimate lounging apparel but also for dresses for the young and the not-so-young.

It has come to pass that young things are enjoying the freedom of the home in comfortable pajamas originally designed for the beach or the garden. Dotted or striped cottons from seersucker up and down the list prove sufficient covering for these hot days at home. It's no wonder the young set like them either for housework or just for playing house.

It seems increasingly hard to keep things in their place. Schiaparelli's garden frock made of two aprons, one in reverse, has now graduated to the ballroom and is quite as stunning there as in the garden.

Glittering Embroideries Again

Beaded trimmings are gaining in importance, with bugles, crystals, and rhinestones all approved, and much attention is shown paillettes in star shapes used to form girdles, to outline decolletages and to cover the surfaces of pockets. Two and three-color combinations in beads are also well thought of, shades of blue with pink or red, for example, appearing on costumes that go in for allover beading. Much attention, too, is shown the white chiffon gown that is discreetly embroidered with rhinestones of crystal beads, with the silvery note repeated in a wide metal girdle.

Both ostrich and coq boas have been seen in the evening, as well as in the afternoon. The boa sketched is a little different from the rule in being attached to a long narrow triangle scarf of the same white crepe as the dress it accompanies.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

An interesting development in skirt silhouettes which is being noted now in some of the fall collections, is an all-around fulness in the skirt, showing a departure from the fitted line. This, according to report, is confined to youthful types of dresses, and as yet has only occasional sponsoring.

One of the newest shades offered in knitted costumes is the purplish wine shade that is called beetroot.

BACHELOR SEVERS MARITAL TIES—DIVORCES QUICKLY

Hot Springs, Ark., (AP)—A bachelor now severs the marital ties in Hot Springs' divorce court.

He is Sam W. Garratt, 40, who was appointed by Governor Harvey Parnell as chancellor of this district to fill the vacancy caused by death of Chancellor W. R. Duffie.

Like his predecessor, Chancellor Garratt has liberal views on divorce and is in sympathy with the 90-day divorce law enacted by the Arkansas legislature last year.

"When once a couple faces the divorce court I feel that the real divorce has already occurred in their hearts and that reconciliation is next to impossible," he says.

RUINS OF ANCIENT TOWER OF BABEL BELIEVED FOUND

Ann Arbor, Mich., (AP)—A Ziggurat, which may be the Tower of Babel mentioned in the Bible, has been unearthed in the ancient city of Akshak, later called Opis, Prof. Leroy Waterman, director of the University of Michigan-Cleveland museum archaeological expedition has reported.

The present mound is about 50 feet high and 250 to 300 feet in diameter. The outer structure is composed of a circular wall of sundried brick 30 feet thick. Inside is a core of solid brick 40 feet square.

The city of Awshaak was one of the oldest of Summerian and Babylonian civilization which dates back to about 4000 B. C.

"Home Folk" Designers Prove Skill With Domestic Materials At New York Display

THESE STRIKING models were among the creations presented by 16 American designers, using only American-made materials, at an advance showing of fall fashions in New York city. The pleasing street frock at left is of maroon colored homespun crepe, trimmed on the sleeves and neckline in a burnt orange of the same material.

THE AFTERNOON costume at left of the center group displays the new drop shoulder treated with fur instead of cloth. In the center is an evening gown in a new self-printed satin, with an interesting back design. A twisted roll outlines the low cut back, converging on a cluster of velvet flowers.

THE BLACK wrap-around evening gown at right of the center group is of broadcloth, and shows the extreme decolletage typical of many of the new models. The two-piece sports dress at right atrtacted much attention at the New York display. It is done in rust-colored wool, with bands of gold and nailhead.

ONCE WASHDAY SPOILED HER FUN — by C.A. Voight

"One box did 3 big washings," says Mrs. Mary Cullen of Pittsburgh

"THERE are seven in my family so the washings are very large, but I just soak the clothes in Rinso and that makes washday a lot easier. I find Rinso very economical, too. With one big box of Rinso I did three big washings—easily. These are the things I did:

5 bedspreads	55 handkerchiefs	22 pieces underwear
10 bureau scarfs	4 children's dresses	6 aprons
12 doilies	4 children's nightclothes	16 pairs socks
18 pillow cases	22 pairs children's stockings	2 house-dresses
12 sheets	14 pieces children's underwear	1 nightgown
4 table-cloths	1 pair pajamas
62 towels	32 shirts

A little Rinso gives a lot of thick suds that soak out dirt and save the clothes. Wonderful suds for dish-washing and all cleaning. And Rinso is so easy on the hands. Get the BIG household package today.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press.)

Bloomington, Ill.—Joe Howard used to warble "What's the Use of Dreaming?" and Mrs. Arthur Baker knows the answer. She dreamed that her diamond ring, lost four years ago, was under the concrete floor of her pantry. She paid no attention. She had the same dream again. She had the floor torn up—and found the ring.

Kentville, Nova Scotia—Ormond Kentley didn't like the way they worshipped at the Full Gospel Church at Scott's Bay. He rushed forward and tried to drag his 18 year old niece from the altar as she was at prayer. In court for disturbing the peace of a religious service, he was fined $1.

San Francisco—W. L. Millington's fox terrier is too smart. Efforts of officers to serve a subpoena on Millington in a minor case had failed for days. Finally the subpoena was tucked under the doorknob. It blew away. This wouldn't have made Millington angry, but his dog, trained to go fetch, raced after the paper, brought it back to the door, scratched to get in, and laid the subpoena at his master's feet. The court later held that the service was legal.

At The Theatres

Today

Kingston: "The Office Girl" and "The Devil Pays." A musical comedy talkie with several new stars in Renate Muller, Owen Nares, and Jack Hulbert. "The Devil Pays" is a mystery melodrama with an all star cast and several murders.

Orpheum: "Consolation Marriage." A sophisticated bit of motion picture perfection is this story of two young people, each jilted by someone else, who marry each other for consolation. This story could easily have been trite and ineffective entertainment, but it proves unusually enjoyable, thanks to some exceptional dialogue and the inspired acting of Irene Dunne and Pat O'Brien. John Halliday, Matt Moore, and Myrna Loy are also in the cast.

Broadway: "What Price Hollywood." Just about as clever and entertaining a bit of talking film as has reached the screen, characterizes this production, a lavish expose of Hollywood and pictures, with a perfect cast, headed by Constance Bennett, and supporting her are such stars as Lowell Sherman, Neil Hamilton and Gregory Ratoff. It's the fast moving, intriguing story of a waitress in a Hollywood restaurant, who dreams of a career in the movies. A great director with a love for strong drink falls for her, and from then on the joys and sorrows of a star in the making are hers. This show has everything a customer could desire, and most of the plot was woven around actual motion picture personalities. In a clever and fast moving vein, this show brings the real low down on Hollywood and its people. Grand entertainment, well worth anybody's time.

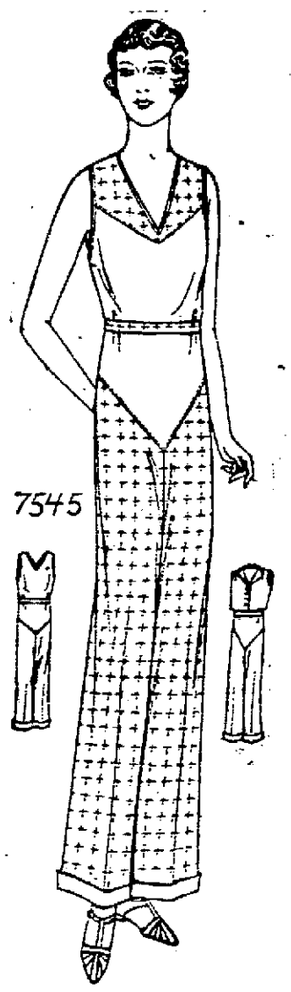
OUR DAILY PATTERN



A New Style In Beach Pajamas

7545. This model presents the trousers portions in mannish style and finished with upturned cuffs. They are mounted on long waist portions, made with a deep yoke on the front, cut in V outline at the neck. A short "Eton" may be added as shown in the small front view. Cotton print is here combined with cotton rep. One could use light weight woolen or gingham. Sateen is also suggested and pongee is very nice.

Designed in 5 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 38 will require 1 2-3 yard of plain material and 2⅜ yards of figured material in 35 inch width if made without bolero. The bolero will require 1 yard. To make in monotone and with the bolero will require 4½ yards in the 35 inch width. To finish with bias binding as in the large view will require 2 1-3 yards 1½ inch wide.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Dowager Turn Extra As Fortune Vanishes

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood (AP)—After a lifetime of wealth and travel, Suzanne Wood, member of a prominent Chicago family, found her fortune of nearly $1,500,000 swept away in the stock market crash of 1929.

Now she is in Hollywood, an "extra" in motion pictures, and pursuing her ambition for an acting career.

"I don't consider it beneath my dignity to play extra and small bits in films—no, indeed," she says. "I want to make a success, and to achieve that I'm glad to start at the bottom."

Suzanne Wood, known in Chicago as Mrs. John E. Dean, is the daughter of the late Samuel E. Wood, prominent and wealthy Chicagoan. Her late husband, also wealthy, was a world traveler. With him, until his death and later alone, Suzanne Wood toured the world, visited many foreign countries and took part in social and artistic activities both here and abroad. In 1903 she was presented at the Court of St. James.

As singer and dancer she had appeared in charitable entertainments, but never seriously thought of acting as a profession until, returning from Europe, she found her fortune gone. Futher saddened by the death in an automobile accident of her brother, Kay Wood, Mrs. Dean came to California.

Miss Suzanne Wood, of a prominent Chicago family, did not despair when the stock market swept away her $1,500,000 fortune. She turned to extra roles in Hollywood.

"One day," she relates, "I hired a car and driver and set out for the beach to rest and relax. Along the way a tire went flat. It was in front of the M-G-M studios. That was when I decided to try pictures.

"While the tire was being repaired I went into the casting office and was told to report for work the next day. I got $7 for it, and I've been working at it ever since."

Miss Wood is seen frequently in ballroom scenes, usually as a society dowager. The rich wardrobe she saved from happier days she uses now before the cameras. But she is philosophical about her losses.

"It isn't fashionable any longer to be rich," she laughs. "I don't know any one who is in these times. Now I want to make a new career for myself as acharacter actress."

When she isn't playing in pictures, Miss Wood writes. She is the author of several novels.

New York, Aug 1 (AP).—Traders found that the bull market in stocks still had some energy left at the start of the new month today, despite its extraordinary exertions of July.

Both stocks and bonds were somewhat hesitant for a time during the morning, but as nothing in the way of a technical reaction developed, speculators for the rise resumed their operations. Wall street was somewhat perplexed over the outcome of the German elections, but felt that continuance of the present or a similar government was indicated. Trading in securities was in somewhat smaller volume.

Advances of 1 to 2 points appeared in a wide assortment of prominent issues, and some preferred shares pushed up more sharply. Rails, however, were given a breathing spell, after their sharp gains of late last week. Gains of 1 to 2 points or so appeared in such issues as U. S. Steel, McKeesport, American Can, Johns Manville, Case, Westinghouse Electric, Allied Chemical, American Tobacco "B", American Telephone, Pacific Telephone, North American, Consolidated Gas, Radio Common, National Biscuit, Loose Wiles, Coca Cola, Penny, Safeway, Woolworth, American Smelting and Santa Fe. Oils were firm, but failed to make important headway, and there was little doing in the motors.

One of the indices of business activity in which Wall Street is keenly interested registered virtually no change in July from June, after some of the sharpest drops of the depression during the spring, another index, weighted for normal seasonal variation, showed a slight gain in July. Statisticians and economists are wondering whether business can have a substantial recovery from these levels without accomplishment of some of the hangover deflation which they think obviously remains to be done, and bearing on this point, standard statistics has compiled data tending to show that industries which contributed 62½ per cent of the national income in the "normal" year 1926 are now deflated, while industries which contributed 37½ per cent, still remain to be deflated.

Indications of further gains in commodity prices appeared, with some of the weekly index based on a wide range of items showing gains for the sixth consecutive week. Commodity prices are inclined to have a seasonal rise during the summer, but this is the first summer of the current depression when they have behaved normally, which was regarded as encouraging in some quarters.

Motorcyclist Hurt In Broadway Crash

A man named Rosanna of East Kingston was removed to the Kingston Hospital this afternoon for treatment for injuries received when the motorcycle he was riding was in collision with an automobile driven by Mrs. Ralph Kilpatrick of lower Broadway. Mrs. Kilpatrick was turning into the driveway at the city hall when the collision occurred. Just how badly the motorcyclist was injured was not known.

ULSTER IMPORTANT TOMATO PRODUCING COUNTY

According to a report released by the Farm Bureau, Ulster county ranks sixth in the state in tomato acreage. According to the 1930 census, 732 acres were in tomatoes that year and the crop was valued at $141,178. The total value of all vegetables was over $658,000.

Local tomatoes are now coming into the market. Only early varieties are now beginning to ripen. In a very short time home grown tomatoes will be on the market in considerable volume. It is recommended that consumers demand home grown tomatoes. When picked ripe, as they are when produced locally, they are of better quality.

Odd Bahamas Tree

Among the many attractions for American tourists at Nassau, in the Bahama Islands, is the famous silk-cotton tree, which rises seemingly like a pyramid, then, at the top, branches off in clumsy shoots. The trunk of the tree flares out curiously into ribbon-like formation. There are believed to be only three silk-cotton trees in existence.

SWEENEY & SCHONGER FISH CONTEST PRIZES

Three prizes were awarded in the Sweeney & Schonger fish contest for the month of July, for the largest specimens of trout, pickerel and bass brought in during the month.

The July contest brought out one exceptionally large entry, in its class, a trout entered by Rudolph DeSilver of Boiceville. It was caught in the upper basin of the reservoir July 5, was 28 inches long and although when brought to the Sweeney & Schonger store it had been cleaned it weighed 6 pounds and 12 ounces. This is the largest trout, so far as known, caught in a long time and it is estimated must have weighed around eight pounds when taken from the water.

The largest pickerel entered during the month was by Wright Mains of Fair street. It was caught July 19 in the reservoir, was 25½ inches long and weighed 4 pounds, 14 ounces.

Egbert Schultz won the bass prize for the month, he having brought in a beauty that measured 21 inches and weighed five pounds. It was caught July 30 in the Fourth Binnewater.

The contest continues through August, with monthly prizes, in addition to which there is a grand prize for the season.

More Applications For Purple Heart

The following additional wounded and cited members of the A. E. F. during the world war have filed applications with the local Purple Heart Committee for a medal of distinguished service. These medals are to be awarded in this city in a ceremony to be held in honor of the wounded and cited men by the Ulster County American Legion, in co-operation with the Legion of Greene and Sullivan counties, on September 7th.

Kingston: William G. Newkirk, James Kilroy, Philip J. Kenny.

Rosendale: John A. Scully.

Ellenville: Herbert D. Winn, William H. Johnson.

Saugerties: Ernest N. Sylvain, George D. Cannon, Henry J. Schroeder, Jr., Michael J. Hennegan, Glenford I. Teetsell, Hampton Robinson, Edward J. Bryce, Henry E. Zahn, Clifford Craw, Michael J. Lawless, Charles T. Bridgman.

Woodstock: Robert F. Browning, Jack Monday, Jack Feeley, John Corcoran.

No applications have as yet been received from the communities of Highland, Marlborough, Phoenicia or Wallkill. Only 12 applications have so far been filed by Kingston veterans. There are probably 100 veterans in this city who are entitled to receive this medal. In cases where wounded or cited men are too modest to come forward to apply for a medal, their formers buddies, or relatives should see to it that their names are sent in to Washington. The Order of the Purple Heart, founded by General George Washington for conspicuous service by members of the Continental Army, will be issued by the war department this year only. They are beautiful gold medals, with the name of the veteran engraved thereon, and will have considerable historic value in the years to come and will be fine mementoes to hand down to one's children.

All applications should be made either through Joseph Beichert, chairman of the local committee, or at the American Legion Building.

Only a few days remain in which to make applications. Veterans entitled to these medals are urged by the committee to make application at once.

Too Many Meanings

Jud Tunkins says one reason finance is so hard to understand is that word "dollars" may have millions of definitions, ranging from ham and eggs to the equipment of an army.—Washington Star.

Sweet Corn Disease Causing Big Losses

A new disease of sweet corn has been found in many parts of the county and has caused serious losses, particularly in early varieties. During the past two weeks the Farm Bureau has received numerous calls for information in regard to this epidemic. It has been diagnosed as Bacterial Wilt, more properly known as Stewart's Disease. It has been found in many early sweet corn plantings in the county and in a few cases caused a total loss.

The following outline of the latest information in regard to this disease has been prepared by the Farm Bureau. The disease was first identified in 1897. The bacteria causing it is known as Aplanobacter Stewarti. It is quite common on Long Island, but is found in most states. It is not found in Canada or in the areas bordering Canada.

The symptoms are long wilted streaks of a lighter green than the adjacent still healthy parts of the leaf blade, but without conspicuous yellowing. Sometimes, when accompanied by dry weather, the entire plant will wilt in a very short time. From a freshly cut stem conspicuous yellowish beads of sticky slime will ooze out of the sap conducting vessels.

The bacteria can be found in any portion of the corn plant and the soil can be infected. Usually the first infection comes with the seed. Seed treatment has been tried with poor results. The only effective remedy or control at present is to plant resistant varieties.

Most varieties of early sweet corn seem to be susceptible to Stewart's Disease. The Evergreen group seldom contract the disease and field corn varieties are practically immune. According to extensive experiments at the Ohio Experimental Station Country Gentleman, Evergreen, Ideal Early, Mammoth Late and Nonesuch are resistant. Adams Early Buttercup, Cory White, Golden Giant and Metropolitan are somewhat resistant. Adams, Extra Early Cory, Mammoth White Crosby, Golden Bantam, Peep-of-Day, Buffalo Early, Cory Early, Mayflower Early and Potters Excelsior are susceptible.

It has been definitely proven that insects, worms of several kinds and grubs help spread the disease. It often attacks corn plants in the wounds made by the above insects.

Unless the experiments the various colleges are conducting give additional information the best things to do are to get seeds from areas not affected and plant resistant varieties.

MODENA.

Modena, Aug. 1.—This is the final announcement of the lawn party to be held at Mr. and Mrs. DuBois Grimm's Friday evening, August 5, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Modena Methodist Church. A supper will be served and a play presented by a group of members of the Plattekill Grange will be on the program of entertainment provided by the committee in charge, namely, Mrs. Rulie Ward, Mrs. Ward Black, Mrs. George Eckert and Mrs. DuBois Grimm.

Plans are materializing for the annual clambake, held in the Community Hall in Modena, under the auspices of the official board of the Methodist Church. Tickets may be purchased from the committee in charge, and proceeds from the affair will benefit the local church.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver C. DuBois and son, Richard, were out-of-town visitors Thursday.

Beatrice Ward visited her aunt, Miss Emma Palmer at Ardonia, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gerow and sons of Gardnertown were callers in this place on Thursday evening.

A group of members of the Sunday school class was recently entertained at the home of Miss Edith Paltridge. At this time plans were made for a hike to McKinstry's Grove near Gardiner, which the girls enjoyed Friday of the past week. A lunch was prepared and enjoyed at noon.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaiah Wager are entertaining relatives at their home.

Elmer Ward has discontinued operating the New Paltz-Newburgh bus.

Augustus Weeks has returned from a trip to Michigan.

Mrs. Minerva Wager has returned home after visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Van Wagenen at Ellenville, N. Y.

The regular meeting of the town board of Plattekill was held in the town clerk's office in this place, last week.

First American Submarine

John Philip Holland conceived the idea during the Civil war, and laid his first plans for a submarine before the United States Navy department in 1875. Two years later he constructed the first vessel of the sort, a clumsy wooden affair. Joining the Crescent shipyards at Elizabeth, N. J., he built, according to his own plans, the submarine Holland, which was successfully tried in 1895, and was purchased by the United States government.

Society Notes

Entertains Playmates.

Miss Ethel Shirley Bauer entertained a few of her playmates at her home on Saturday in honor of her ninth birthday. Games were enjoyed and at 4 o'clock refreshments were served. The table was decorated in yellow and green. Those attending the party were Rita and Mary Bodenweber, Harriett Landers, Margaret Steeger, Teresa Carr, Betty Bickert, Violet Fischang, Alma Schwenk, Evelyn Morsehead, Marjorie Jones, Ethel Bauer and Mabel Brewer. Miss Ethel received many lovely presents.

Durham-Meddaugh

Newton Durham and Elizabeth Meddaugh, both of Poughkeepsie, were united in marriage on Saturday by the Rev. Grenville E. Kerr, M. E. clergyman of Kingston.

Woodlief-Peters.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Vivienne Peters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Peters of Saugerties, and Donald Woodlief of High Woods. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. F. Hersh in the Atonement Lutheran Church, Saugerties, Thursday afternoon, July 21.

Trimm-Brooks

Saturday, July 30, at St. Thomas Episcopal Church, Fifth avenue, New York city, Miss Evelyn L. Brooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George G. Brooks of this city, was married to Jack E. Trimm, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Trimm of New York city. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Roleiff H. Brooks, who is an uncle of the bride. They were attended by Paul G. Maxwell of Forest Hill, L. I., and Miss Ruth Palen of Kingston. Both bride and bridesmaid were charming. The bride wore shell pink chiffon dress with picture hat to match, with a corsage of pink roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid wore a blue flowered chiffon dress with blue picture hat and also a corsage of pink roses and lilies of the valley. After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Trimm will reside in Westchester county, where a newly furnished home awaits them.

Dederick-Helsmoortel

The wedding of Harold E. Dederick and Miss Josephine Mortell Helsmoortel, both of Saugerties, took place on Thursday, July 28, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Helsmoortel, the Rev. B. F. Denniston of New York city, formerly of Saugerties, performing the ceremony. Miss Dorothy Van Gasbeek and Maurice Clements were the attendants. Many beautiful gifts were received, among them being a Steinway piano from the bridegroom to the bride. Miss Helsmoortel is a well-known pianist and singer and was for many years the soprano soloist at the Holy Cross Church, Kingston. Among the guests were the Rev. B. Denniston, Mrs. Denniston and daughter, Laura, Mrs. Lillian Miller Hemstreet, Arthur F. Helsmoortel, all of New York city; Mrs. Fisher and daughter, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Giles, all of Newark, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. A. Giles, Miss S. Van Gaasbeck, Mr. and Mrs. H. Clements, Maurice Clements, Roy Helsmoortel, Mr. and Mrs. F. Helsmoortel, Mrs. R. Melius, Erling Hanson, all of Saugerties, and Mr. and Mrs. Hicks of Greenville. The happy pair left by car for Lake George and will later reside in New York city.

THREE KILLED IN ATTEMPT TO LAND HYDROPLANE

Ste Rose, Que., Aug. 1 (AP).—A young aviation enthusiast and his two mechanics lay dead here today, victims of the failure of a converted hydroplane to make a successful landing on the Jesus River yesterday.

Andrew Darling, 33, a salesman, married; John Maguire, 23, and Georges Brossard, 19, met death when the plane plunged nose-first 50 feet into the river yesterday and embedded itself firmly in the bottom.

Hundreds of people saw the death-plunge and scores went to their rescue. An axe freed them from the cabin but attempts at resuscitation were unavailing.

Drowns in Cassadaga Lake

Dunkirk, N. Y., Aug. 1 (AP)—Gerbert C. Cloth, 24, of Erie, Pa., drowned in Cassadaga Lake, near the Lilydale Assembly Grounds, last night when his motorboat capsized. The body was recovered an hour later. Cloth had recently been married and he and his bride were spending the week-end with friends at Assembly.

MILTON

Milton, Aug. 1—The summer fair and cafeteria supper held by the Ladies' Needlecraft Society of the Milton Presbyterian Church netted about eighty dollars for the church.

Mrs. Delemater, Mrs. Whispel, Mrs. Wessel, Mrs. Keen, Mrs. Loomis and Miss Harriet were Kingston visitors on Thursday.

A camp of boys and girls from the city with chaperons are rooming in the Levy bungalow, vacated by Mr. Wagner and family some time ago. The meals are served at the Levy Cobblestone Inn nearby.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. G. Sweet, a daughter.

Mrs. S. Sickler, nurse, is caring for Mr. Gulnac, who is confined to his bed by illness.

Miss Frances Hill spent over Sunday with her sister, Mrs. R. Draffin, at Grand Gorge.

Several are recovering from the whooping cough. Among them are Hoyt, James and Alberta Clancy.

LOCAL SWEET CORN OF HIGH QUALITY ON MARKET.

Local sweet corn of high quality is now on the market in quantities. The recent rains have improved the crop considerably. The mid-season varieties are now being harvested and the price is very reasonable. The Farm Bureau suggests that all consumers demand Ulster county sweet corn as well as other home-grown produce.

Although Ulster county only ranks twenty-second in sweet corn acreage in the state, the value of the crop is thirteenth. This is accounted for by the fact that many counties produce sweet corn for canning factories at a lower price. According to the federal census the 1929 crop was valued at $44,000.

THE JOINERS

Eclipse August 31 To See Scientists' Ninth Battle To Assay Coronium, Mystery Substance In Sun Halo

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(Associated Press Science Editor)

New York, (AP).—Two astronomers expect to be inside a telescope pointed at the total eclipse in New England August 31 and never see the eclipse at all.

They will work in darkness, with the 40 foot instrument of the University of Michigan at Freyburg, Maine. Their job is to change photographic plates several times during the 100 seconds of eclipse.

The pictures will be four and one-half inches in diameter, large scale photos of the corona, the white radiance streaming millions of miles outward from the edge of the dark moon.

To Photograph Flames

These big photographs will show also the "solar prominences," tongues of flame rising from the edge of the sun. Some of them are as high as the distance from the earth to the moon, nearly a quarter of a million miles.

The secret of "coronium," a substance in the sun's atmosphere which gives off a green color, will be sought with an interferometer operated by Heber D. Curtis, Ph. D., director of the Michigan expedition.

Once coronium was thought to be some chemical element unknown on earth. Now it is believed to be oxygen in highly electrified form. But identification is not certain.

May Have Practical Uses.

The identification might lead to practical uses on earth. Dr. Curtis has tried eight times at previous eclipses to make an interferometer assay, each time with the co-operation of Dr. Wright of Swarthmore.

All eight attempts failed. This time Dr. Curtis has a bigger interferometer, said to be the largest ever used on an eclipse.

An interferometer splits a beam of light into two rays and reflects them so that they come back together again to fall on the same spot. At this spot details of the structure of light become visible to the eye. Thus the interferometer is a substitute for a microscope.

Plan Movies of Eclipse.

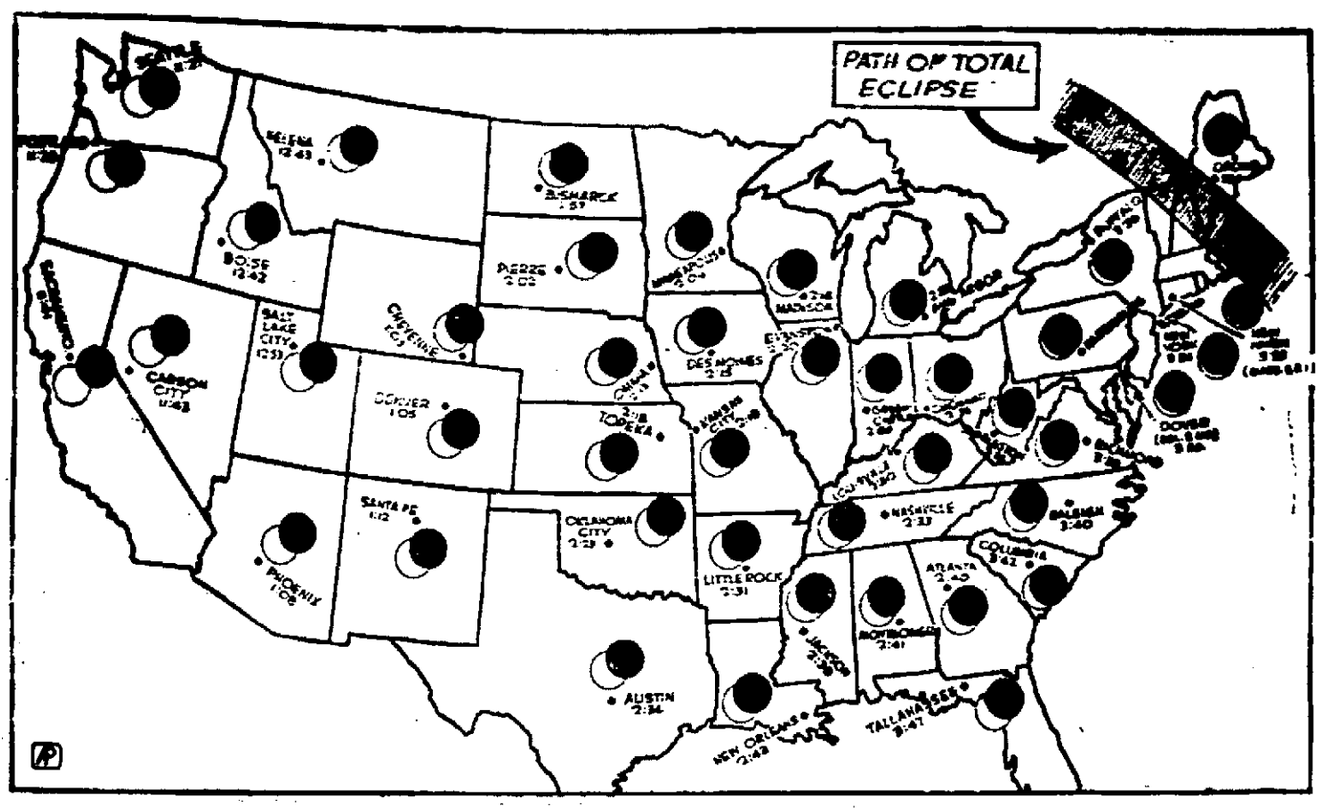
Motion pictures of the eclipse by a new method is another Michigan project at Freyburg. The old principle is employed of intermittent photos, speeded up the same as a flower's growth is shown in the movies.

The new feature is a set of gears capable of following automatically the path of the moon. The queen of night deceives the eye into an illusion of unchanging speed. Actually the path is erratic with speed increasing near the horizon.

The Michigan party will also take a "look" at the invisible infra-red rays coming from the sun's corona. Specially sensitized photographic plates will record the spectra of atoms beyond the last visible red light, atoms which give off heat but no light.

This expedition is one of nearly 30 from the United States, Canada, Europe and the Orient, all of which will set up instruments and keep a number of astronomers busy taking scientific snap shots of this eclipse.

Solar Eclipse As United States Will See It



This map of the United States shows the hour at which the eclipse of the sun August 31 will be at its maximum at various cities of the United States. Times are standard for each city. Light and dark circles represent the sun and moon, their position in each case indicating the extent to which the sun will be obscured in each locality.

News of Today In Kingston

The great silver bird that has been flying over Kingston for the past few days will probably continue to do so for the better part of the week. Passengers are being taken for trips and so far the people around here have proved themselves to be rather air-minded. Sunday evening after the sun had gone to rest, the plane was still circling the sky with a green light on its right wing, a red one on the left side and a white one mounted on the tail.

It was something new for the people to look at and pedestrians crossing the streets were seen standing in the middle of the road looking skyward. That is bad when people forget that somebody driving a car might be looking skyward too.

However, the tri-motor Ford cabin monoplane does cut a good picture in the sky. Its entire body being silver makes it appear like something unearthly as it gleams in the sun. A good view can be had of the ship on each trip for it flies very low, that is, it seems to. Probably because the ship is so large it seems that way. It must have the required altitude for flying over a city.

The giant bird is run well and kept well by Captain Goodsell and his small crew. All that should shine on the ship does shine. Nearly everything is metal and this metal is called dur-aluminum, a composition of aluminum, copper and steel alloy, which is eight times lighter but just as strong as steel.

The cabin will hold 15 passengers who are carried through the air by three J-Five Wright Whirlwind motors of 220 h. p. each. They'll draw the ship through the air at a top speed of 115 miles an hour. The wing spread is 74 feet and the length 49 feet and 9 inches.

The first time the ship came here it flew up from Middletown and several leading men from Kingston were on the flight. Sunday night a few of the men went to the airport and Goodsell was very glad to renew their acquaintances. One of the men was E. E. Fessenden.

And Roger Baer played the organ, not at twilight, but at the Broadway Theatre. His first appearance was made Sunday and the people received him as though he had been their long lost favorite.

Yet a different atmosphere was created when the organ was played by a man that you could both see and watch. It recalled old moments of past years, when the theatre first started. Of course, then the organ was used to accompany the silent version of pictures, while now it is only played in between shows.

Still the whole arrangement is a big improvement over the vitaphone overtures.

People are continually complaining about the traffic regulations in Kingston.

Good live traffic officers stationed at a few busy intersections might help clear up some of the traffic and improve regulations.

Stop signs were taken down where they weren't needed, now why not make further improvements.

OLIVE BRIDGE.

Olive Bridge, Aug. 1 (AP).—The hot dog roast that was to be given by the 4-H Homemaking Club Tuesday evening, August 2, at the pine nursery will be held at Fromer's Pond on the same date. There will be hot dogs and rolls, watermelon, soda, homemade ice cream and candy for sale. Everyone is welcome to come.

Among the shoppers in Kingston Friday were Mrs. John Marshall and son, Mrs. Cecil Gray and Mr. and Mrs. Le Roy Davis and family.

The tennis court owned by the "Crusaders" is completed and is being greatly enjoyed by the young people.

Miss Martha Gray and girl friend called on Mrs. Cecil Gray Thursday evening.

Mrs. Henry Winchell called on Mrs. John Marshall, Friday evening.

Mrs. Katie Oakley and daughter, Helen of Poughkeepsie, are spending some time with Mrs. Le Roy Davis.

Harry Haver is in the Benedictine Hospital having been operated on for appendicites Thursday.

Virginia Krum has returned home after spending a couple of weeks with her grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Krum at Krumville.

Mrs. Chester Lyons and children called on Mrs. Elson Oakley Friday afternoon.

Mabel Christiana is spending her vacation at her home.

Doris Alexander is employed at Van Dyke's Studio in Kingston.

Miss Nellie Marshall, who underwent a serious operation at the Albany Hospital recently, is now at the home of her brother, Cuthbert, in Kingston.

The "Crusaders" meeting will be held Friday evening at the parsonage. Members come early and bring tennis racquets.

Awarded Pressure Cooker.

Miss Schaefer of 10 Pine street was awarded the Windsor pressure cooker which was given away Saturday at the local Montgomery Ward & Company store on Fair street, where during the week demonstrations were given in the use of pressure cookers. These demonstrations were witnessed by a large number of people.

"Little Stories for Bedtime" by Thornton W. Burgess

LONGLEGS CALLS RATTLES A THIEF

The reckless tongue is quite the worst
Of all the things I know.
So watch your tongue and guard your tongue,
And let your tongue be slow.

A QUICK tongue is apt to be a reckless tongue, and a reckless tongue is one that says things without stopping to think if they be true or of what harm they may do by being repeated. The tongues of some people seem to be reckless all the time. Gossipy tongues almost always are reckless. Other tongues become reckless when their owners lose their tempers. It was this way with the tongue of Longlegs the Heron that beautiful summer day. Longlegs lost his temper and then he said things which he wouldn't have said if he had stopped to think.

You see Longlegs was very hungry and he waited patiently for a long, long time for his breakfast. You know

Rattles the Kingfisher Chuckled.

Longlegs is a fisherman, and he is one of those who wait for their meals to come to them instead of going after them. Little Joe Otter is a fisherman, but he is the other kind. He is such a famous swimmer that he can chase and catch fish. Longlegs isn't a swimmer at all, so he has to wait for the fish to swim near enough to where he is standing for him to catch one by darting his long neck downward like lightning and snapping up the fish in his great spear-like bill.

So on this particular morning when Longlegs had waited and waited so patiently and at last a school of minnows had come swimming in almost within reach it had been more than he could stand to have Rattles the Kingfisher suddenly dart down and seize the biggest minnow Longlegs had counted as surely his, at the same time frightening away all the other minnows.

"You're a thief!" he screamed at Rattles. "You're a robber! That was my fish!"

Rattles the Kingfisher chuckled. It wasn't a pleasant chuckle to hear because Rattles hasn't a pleasant voice. In fact it is a very unpleasant voice. He didn't reply at once because he was too busy swallowing that big, fat minnow. It was so big that it stuck in his throat, and he had to twist and squirm and wriggle and gulp and gasp to get it down. But at last it was down. Then he looked across at longlegs and chuckled again.

"If it was yours why didn't you catch it?" he asked. "I didn't even know you were over there. Not that it would have made any difference," he added with another harsh chuckle, "for fish belong to whoever can catch them, and that fat minnow didn't belong to you because you hadn't caught it."

"It did too!" retorted Longlegs, and his voice was as harsh as Rattles' voice. "I was just going to catch it when you stole it. You're a thief, I tell you. I'm going to tell everybody that you're a thief. You stole my breakfast!"

Rattles chuckled again. You see, having that big fat minnow in his stomach he simply couldn't lose his temper. You know, temper is very largely a matter of an empty stomach. The stomach of Longlegs was empty and so his temper was very, very bad, while the stomach of Rattles was full, and so his temper was very, very good.

"Go, ahead! Go ahead, Longlegs!" said he. "You tell everybody that I'm a thief, and I'll tell everybody that you are a long-legged, long-necked, cross-grained, bad-tempered, lazy do-nothing, who waits for his meals to come to him instead of going after them. Everybody knows that I never stole anything in my life, and everybody knows that you are just what I have said you are. It is true I haven't many friends, but it is because I don't want them. But it is just as true that you haven't either. It is easy enough to call names, and I guess I can do that as well as you can. So go ahead. Calling me a thief doesn't make me one, and you know as well as I do that that minnow didn't belong to anybody until it was caught. Just to pay you for losing your temper, I'm going to stay right here by the Smiling Pool, and you ought to know, if you don't, that I can beat you fishing every time. If you'll take my advice you'll go over to the Big river. You'll fill your stomach sooner there, and then you'll feel better."

Longlegs opened his mouth for an angry retort, then closed it without saying a word. He knew that what Rattles said was true, and to tell the truth he was a wee bit ashamed. Finally he spread his big wings and flapped away in the direction of the Big river. Rattles the Kingfisher chuckled noisily. Then he fixed his bright eyes on the Smiling Pool to watch for minnows.

PLATTEKILL GRANGERS GUESTS OF HIGHLAND GRANGE.

Plattekill, Aug. 1.—A large group of members of the Plattekill Grange visited the Highland Grange Tuesday evening of last week and presented the program of entertainment at that place as follows:

Reading—"Meaning of Cooperation," by the lecturer, Mrs. C. Ira Thompson.
Original Essays on "Cooperation, the Keynote of Success in the Grange," Mrs. Seth Lippincott.
"Cooperation, the Keynote of Success in the Farming Industry," Mrs. Charles Everett.
Song, "Cooperation," chorus.
Pantomime entitled "Operators, not Cooperators," by Anna Doskl, Everetta Jansen, Mrs. William Nabor and Sheldon Edmund.
Vocal selection, Myron Fosler.
Monologue, Miss Bessie Harris.
A one-act play, "When Father Goes on a Diet," Mrs. Harry Coleman, Mrs. William Harris, Mrs. Samuel Dransfield, Lolita Harris, Gerow Wilkins, Arthur Fosler and Wilson Edmunds.

The Grangers also presented a play, "A Husband for Huldah," at the Rosendale Grange Monday evening, and assisted otherwise in the program of entertainment.

EARNS LIVELIHOOD CARING FOR JUNGLE ANIMAL BABIES

Oakland, Cal., (AP).—When captive jungle animals refuse to perform their maternal duties or threaten to make a meal of their cubs H. E. Jager is called. By profession he is "nurseryman for the young of fierce pets."

Jager's assistant is Miss Gypsy Penn, who takes care of the young cats at night.

But it isn't all fun to be nurse to jungle babies, as they must be fed from a bottle every three or four hours night and day.

Milk Dealers Adjust Prices

Kingston, N. Y., Aug. 1, 1932

To comply with a recent ruling of the Board of Health, effective August first, which eliminates all Grade B milk from the Kingston City market, the various dealers have adjusted the price of Grade A milk, which grade must be sold instead of the lower grade.

In adjusting the price of a higher grade consideration was given to the large number of customers who because of the times have been buying the lowest grade possible for family use.

Grade A milk sold under the three markings, Guernsey, Raw, and Pasteurized, will drop one cent per quart to private families in quart bottles only. Milk in pint bottles and wholesale milk will remain at the present price paid for Grade A milk.

The milk dealers are in position to supply wholesale milk both in bottles and in bulk at Grade A prices where Grade B was formerly sold at a lower price.

New price schedule effective August 1, is as follows:

Grade A Guernsey, quart....15 cents
Grade A Guernsey, pints....9 cents
Grade A Raw, quarts.....14 cents
Grade A Raw, pints.....8 cents
Grade A Pasteurized, quarts.13 cents
Grade A Pasteurized, pints.7½ cents

The new price schedule gives the customer the best milk at the lowest possible price. With this new schedule a system of weekly collections will be inaugurated. This will give the customer an opportunity to pay more frequently. Putting money in the bottle each morning does not delay deliveries but does help collections. The practice of allowing milk bills to run for an indefinite period and in some cases for a time that is far beyond good business will no longer be permitted.—Advertisement

Records Fall as Olympics Open With U. S. Off in Front

Los Angeles, Aug. 1 (AP)—After a glittering inaugural before the greatest crowd in Olympic history, then a record-smashing competitive overture, the Olympic track and field championships today featured the prospect that two of the most popular title-holders, Percy Williams of Canada, and Lord David Burghley of England, will be hard pressed to keep up the pace and probably will be dethroned.

Both barely survived the first day's battle for places, which gave 76,000 spectators in the Coliseum stadium a succession of unexpected thrills. The crowd saw Olympic records shattered in four men's events and witnessed, all told, no less than eight record performances, including a world record javelin throw, for women of 143 feet, 4 inches, by the "one- woman" track team from Dallas, Tex.—Mildred (Babe) Didrikson.

Williams, in the semi-finals of the classic 100-meter dash, outstanding event on this afternoon's program, faced not only the swift-returning challenge of a crack trio of Americans, Eddie Tolan, Ralph Metcalfe, and George Simpson, but the threat of a new German flier, Arthur Jonath.

The Canadian star, who won both sprint trials at Amsterdam, four years ago, survived by way of the third and last qualifying position in a trial heat won by Tolan, the former Michigan negro ace, in the new Olympic record of 10.4 seconds. Williams, in this heat of the second series, trailed Carlos Luti, surprise contender from the Argentine, as well as Tolan.

Jonath, a big rangy German, came through his second test in 10.5 seconds, also beating the former Olympic mark of 10.6, which he equalled in his first race.

Metcalfe and Simpson, neither of whom was extended in sweeping through a brace of victories apiece, were clocked in 10.7 seconds in their second races. Metcalfe, the Marquette University negro and American sprint champion, particularly seemed to have lots to spare as he breezed to his second victory over the sole Japanese survivor, Yoshioka, a gallant little fellow who churned up the cinders with a big handkerchief wrapped around his head.

The favorites, as they stacked up among the even dozen of the world's best sprinters surviving the two preliminary rounds, were Tolan, Metcalfe and Jonath, in that order.

Two Americans, Glenn Hardin, Louisiana youngster, and the veteran Morgan Taylor, world record-holder, and Lord Burghley were among the half dozen surviving for the 400 meter hurdles final today. They finished, in the order named, in the first semi-final race, a close and desperate battle which saw Hardin set a new Olympic record of 52.8 seconds.

Otherwise the first day's track and field competition was marked by the crowning of three world champions, as follows:

(1) Leo Sexton, United States, who twice shattered the Olympic shotput record with successive marks of 52 feet, 3¾ inches and 52 feet, 6 3/16 inches.

(2) Janusz Kusocinski, Poland, who broke the Finnish domination of the 10,000 meter race by beating the best of Finland's youngsters, Vomari Iso-Hollo, and cracking Paavo Nurmi's Olympic record by negotiating the distance in 30 minutes, 11.4 seconds.

(3) Duncan McNaughton, Canada, who captured the running high jump, at 6 feet, 5⅝ inches, after a prolonged jump-off duel with Bob Van Osdel of the United States.

(4) Mildred (Babe) Didrikson, United States, whose world record toss of 143 feet, 4 inches, on her first try with the javelin, marked the debut of this extraordinary girl athlete in Olympic competition. It also enabled her to beat the German, Braumuller, who had held the previous women's mark of 132 feet, 7⅝ inches, and lost yesterday despite a toss of 142 feet, 5⅝ inches.

All Stars Blanked At Millbrook, 4-0

At Millbrook Sunday afternoon the baseball team of that place shellacked the Kingston All Stars, 4-0, in a game that featured Specs Ellis of Walden as the star hurler. He held the boys of John McCardle to four hits, the bingles being registered by Tommy Davitt, Charlie Lay and Joie Hoffman. The latter poled out a double and single in three tries at the plate. Ten strikeouts were credited to Ellis.

Jack Dodge pitched for the All Stars and allowed 13 hits, three going to Galluppo, center fielder of the Millbrook nine. Two home runs were hit off the delivery of the former Southern leaguer, one by Simpson, the right fielder, and the other by Gros, second baseman of the home club.

Curtis Gives Pass to Thorpe

Los Angeles, Aug. 1 (AP)—Jim Thorpe, once the world's greatest all-around athlete, saw the opening ceremonies of the 1932 Olympic Games on a borrowed pass—but he'll view the rest of them from a seat in the presidential box. Vice President Charles Curtis, proud of Thorpe's contribution to athletics, has ordered his pass delivered to Jim. Both are of Indian descent.

Champion Strong Men of the Olympics

Los Angeles, Aug. 1 (AP)—A dancing instructor, a gambler, a lawyer, a bank teller and an electrician today reigned as the new champion strong men of the 1932 Olympic games.

Three defending titlists went down to defeat as three Frechmen, a German and a Czecho-Slovakian carried off the crowns in the gruelling weight-lifting events.

The new champions and their total lifts are:

Heavyweight — Jaroslav Skobia, Czecho-Slovakian electric worker, 836 pounds.

Light heavyweight—Louis Hostin, former croupier in a gambling casino, 803.

Middleweight — Rudolf Jsmayr, German lawyer, 759.

Lightweight — Rene Duverger, French instructor in athletic dancing, 715.

Featherweight—Raymond Suvigny, French banker, 632½.

Olympic records tumbled as the powerful invaders literally lifted the roof off the Olympic auditorium in the two day battle of beef. Four new marks were established and one was tied. Suvigny equalled the featherweight record of 632½ set by F. Andrysek, Austria, four years ago while the other champions bettered former totals.

Yesterday's STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Paul Derringer, Cards—Shut out Braves with six hits in first game doubleheader.

Bud Clancy, Dodgers—Making debut with dodgers, hit two doubles and four singles in two games with Chicago.

Oscar Melillo, Browns—Drove in six runs in double victory over the Red Sox.

Monte Weaver, Senators—Pitched his 17th victory over White Sox and singled in two runs.

Bob Grove and Hickey Cochrane, Athletics—Former held Cleveland to four hits and Cochrane singled across winning run.

Babe Ruth, Yankees—Knocked in five runs with home run and two singles to help defeat Detroit.

SCORES AT WOODSTOCK COUNTRY CLUB FOURSOME

With a net score of 68 Mrs. Richard Hellman and David Reasoner won the monthly two-ball mixed foursome played at the Woodstock Country Club Friday afternoon.

There were 22 entries for the tournament and the competition was keen. Mrs. Hellman and Mr. Reasoner registered the low gross with 83 and had a combined handicap of 15. In the 18 holes played they registered par golf on 11 of them. The runners up were Mrs. Cecil Chichester and Mr. Meehan with a gross score of 96, handicap 25, net 71.

The detailed scores were as follows:

City League Game Tonight

Another postponed game of the City League will be staged at the Athletic Field this evening. The combatants will be the league-leading Forst Butchers and the Schryver Lumbermen. The Butchers have to win all their remaining games to assure them of the championship of the first half and will be out strong to beat the Lumbermen, who still have a mathematical chance of taking the first half. Dewey Van Buren is slated to pitch for the Butchers with Robins behind the bat. Ted Fraleigh and Gene Rider will comprise the Lumbermen's battery.

Other postponed games for the rest of the week are the following:

Tuesday—Cravats vs. Taiclets.
Wednesday—Schryvers vs. K. of C.
Thursday—Forsts vs. Cravats.

Blue Sox Swamps Saugerties, 10-0

Behind the pitching of Joe Coughlin the Blue Sox A. C. had an easy time defeating the Cornwell Engine Company of Saugerites, 10-0, Sunday afternoon at Hasbrouck Park. Coughlin had eight strikeouts and allowed seven scattered hits. The Sox touched Smoky for 13 bingles. He struck out seven.

Blue Sox runs were scored as follows: J. Turck, 2; Tomaseski, 3; Krom, 2; Carter, 1; Didzik, 2; Snyder, 1.

The most tallies were scored in the seventh inning when four men crossed home plate.

American Legion Announces Boxing Card For Friday

Matchmaker Carl J. "Doc" Studer has announced the full card of scraps for the outdoor boxing show at the American Legion stadium, Broadway and West O'Reilly street, Friday night as follows:

Feature Event.

Jack Sullivan, Marlborough, vs. Willie Barrow, Poughkeepsie, 6 rounds.

Semi-Final.

Johnny Raymond, East Kingston, vs. Jack Willis, Poughkeepsie, 6 rounds.

Special Match.

Buddy Emerson, St. Remy vs. Sammy Popp, Poughkeepsie, 6 rounds.

Preliminaries.

Joe Pincus, Kingston, vs. Willie Kouhout, Mitchell Field, L. I., 4 rounds.

Charlie Smith, Hurley, vs. Mickey Raymond, East Kingston, 4 rounds.

Kid Brown, Kingston, vs. Mike Cutello, Marlborough, 4 rounds.

Chester Dawe, Kingston, vs. Battling Lurie, Kingston, 4 rounds.

The star bout is the third match between Sullivan and Barrow heavyweights, and promises to be a sensational affair. Barrow defeated Sullivan in their first meeting and the second was stopped by the referee because both fighters had dangerous cuts near their eyes resulting from a collision with their heads.

Starting time of the first bout is 8:30. A crowd surpassing the 700 that saw the first outdoor show put on by the Legion for its welfare fund is expected to be present Friday.

Tagging Major League Bases

For all anyone can prove to the contrary, Babe Ruth still is the Yankees, and the Yankees still are Ruth.

Here the big fellow, up from a bed of pain, has been back in the lineup four days, and in that brief space he has transformed the leaders from a sickly, badly scared club back to the confident, all conquering team they were before his injury.

The Bambino, still limping slightly, was rushed back into the pennant fight last Thursday after the Yankees had dropped three straight games. Since that time he has been to the plate 13 times; collected 10 hits for an average of .769, driven in 14 runs and scored five times. The Yankees won three of the four games.

Included in the Babe's four day collection were four home runs, running his total to 30, leaving him 11 behind Jimmie Foxx, of the Athletics, the pacesetter. He smacked No. 30 yesterday along with a pair of singles to drive in five runs to help squelch Detroit, 12 to 8.

The Cleveland Indians, making their debut in their new stadium before 80,284 fans, found the Athletics ungracious guests. Lefty Grove, at his best before the great gathering, limited the Indians to four hits and in the eighth inning Mickey Cochrane clicked a single that won the game, 1 to 0.

Monte Weaver, Washington's rookie star, scored his 17th victory at Chicago's expense, 8 to 5. Irving Hadley and Bob Cooney each turned in a nice pitching job to give the St. Louis Browns a pair over Boston, 13 to 2 and 7 to 2.

The National League flag race remained at a standstill as the leading Pirates observed an off day at Philadelphia and the Chicago Cubs split with Brooklyn. Charley Root pitched the Cubs to an easy victory in the first, 6 to 3, but the Dodgers rallied in the seventh inning of the nightcap to win, 5 to 4.

The Boston Braves also divided with St. Louis. Paul Derringer blanking the Braves, 7 to 0, in the opener, and Boston slugging Dizzy Dean for a 7 to 2 decision in the second. Dean hit a homer.

Breaking a seven-game losing streak, the New York Giants tumbled Cincinnati twice, 4 to 3 and 6 to 4.

U. S. Davis Cup Men Are Brighter Prospects in 1933

Paris, Aug. 1 (AP)—Once again the United States has failed by the barest possible margin—three matches to two—to wrest the coveted Davis cup from France, but her defeated young warriors carried bright hopes for the future as they started the long trip back home today.

They were beaten in the three-day test when Jean Borotra came back from a tennis grave of his own choosing to play some of the most inspired tennis of his illustrious career. But not until Ellsworth Vines, Jr., Uncle Sam's greatest hope, had met and subdued France's idol, Henri Cochet, and given the defenders a taste of what is in store for them next year.

The series was concluded officially when Borotra, 34-year-old derrish of the courts, sent 12,000 admirers into near hysterics by defeating Wilmer Allison, 1-6, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2, 7-5, in the first of yesterday's concluding singles.

Barely had the cheering the triumphant Borotra from the court ceased however, when the ardor of their celebration was dampened by the sight of Cochet going down to defeat for the first time in Davis cup play since France won the trophy six years ago.

Vines, whipping himself to the heights of his great game, came back after dropping the first two sets to defeat the little tennis master, 4-6, 0-6, 7-5, 8-6, 6-2. Time and again in the final three sets play was interrupted while the partisan crowd, almost against its will, rose and cheered the Californian's magnificent play.

The Vines who turned back Cochet, the world's first ranking player, bore but slight resemblance to the Vines who was beaten in his opening singles match on Friday by Borotra. Apparently recovered from the "stage fright" which accompanies every player's debut in Davis cup warfare, the lanky youth gained vindication and proved he was every bit the player he had been pictured. Those who saw him at his spectacular best agreed Uncle Sam should have little difficulty taking the big trophy back home a year hence.

Although it fell to Allison's lot to lose both of his singles matches, including the conclusive duel of the series, the Texan came near being the outstanding hero of an American triumph. Having given the invaders their first victory the previous day, when he teamed with Johnny Van Ryn to defeat Cochet and Jacques Brugnon in doubles, he was beaten yesterday only after a heart-breaking duel with the clever Borotra.

He led the Frechman 4-2 in the final set, then at 5-3 and with the score 40-love on his own service, only to receive a series of disheartening "breaks" against him that permitted the Basque to come from behind and win. Six times Allison had match point, but even the law of averages would not come to his rescue.

Once in that epic final set the American fell sprawling on the slippery court, and again he broke his racquet. Even the French fans felt that the linesman erred in giving Borotra several crucial points. Borotra protested against one point given him in the ninth game, when he saved two match points.

Borotra changed shoes three times, including once in the ninth game when it looked like Allison would sew up the match. The officials first refused to let him make another change, but relented after he had lost three straight points.

Kingston Colonials Defeat Athens Team, Meet Dahnmen Friday

The Kingston Colonials by defeating the Laundry team 7-2 Sunday at Athens handed City Judge Bernard A. "Bud" Culleton of Kingston his first setback of the season. They touched him for 12 hits, one of which was a three bagger by "Lefty" Williams and two two-base slams by Hank Cragan.

Colonial runs were scored as follows: Johnson, 2; Sickler, 1; Williams, 1; Cragan, 1; Dulin, 1; Dick Williams, 1.

Dick Williams pitched for the Colonials until the sixth inning, allowing four hits. Dewey Van Buren who took the mound in the sixth permitted only two bingles during his four-inning turn in the box.

So impressed were Athens fans with the performance of the Colonials that the management of the Laundrymen implores Managers Herbie Myers and "Kid" Moore to bring their nine back for a return game. They promised that they would.

Of course, the Colonials are highly elated over being the first team to defeat Judge Culloton, former Pittsburgh Pirate, and feel confident that the victory will serve to stimulate them greatly in their encounter with Freddie Dahn's Poughkeepsie All Stars at the Athletic Field Friday evening, this week. This contest is expected to be one of the best of the season in Kingston. A record turnout of fans is anticipated.

Irish Block Nine Defeat Port Ewen

At Wilbur Sunday afternoon the Irish Block Nine defeated the Port Ewen baseball team 13-9. The team from across the bridge showed the way 8-0 up until the fifth inning when the Wilbur boys started a rally that netted them six runs in that frame, five in the seventh and two in the eighth for their total of 13. Port Ewen made six in the first, two in the second and one in the ninth.

The batteries were Cullen and Kreppel for the Irish Block Nine, Ferraro and Short for Port Ewen. George Cragan and F. Koslowski were the umpires.

Next Sunday at Wilbur the Irishers will play the Mid-Hudson nine of Highland.

Pan-Ams Overwhelm Schenectady, 7-1

Touching Pitcher O'Brien, of the Schenectady All Stars, for 16 hits, the Pan-Ams defeated that team at the Saugerties road diamond Sunday afternoon by the score of 7-1. Bod Cullum and Palmer each hit three out of four times at bat, taking the batting honors of the day.

Gus Wiedemann was on the mound for the Pan-Ams and allowed only six hits, two of which were scored by Horvat.

Pan-Am runs were scored by Tierney, 1; Palmer, 1; Carpenter, 1; Cullum, 1; Burgevin, 1; Fuschle, 1; Roosa, 1.

Hammil, the catcher for the All Stars, formerly of the D. & H. Generals, scored the upstaters' lone tally.

Saturday afternoon the Pan-Ams played at Lake Mohonk, losing to the nine from the summer resort, 5-6.

Monfri League Contests Tonight

This evening at 6:30 o'clock, Monfri Baseball League games will be played as follows: Dairylea vs. Herzogs at Saugerties road diamond; Telcos vs. Triangles at the Fair Grounds.

ST. REMY FIREMEN LOSE TO GOLDEN RODS, 8-4

The St. Remy baseball team unauspiciously dedicated its new diamond Sunday afternoon by bowing to the East Kingston Golden Rods in a game that ended 8-4. Pitchers Phil Komosa and Eddie Scherer were touched for 21 blows in all by the negro batsmen, the most prolific of which were Wynne and Brown with four hits apiece. Wilson and Bassett pitched for the Golden Rods, allowing the Farmers only five hits.

Herzogs Victorious.

The Herzog team, of the Monfri league, defeated the Highland team, 4-2, Sunday at the Fair Grounds. Ken Williams did the pitching for the winning nine, allowing four hits. Wednesday at 6:30 p. m., the Herzogs will play the Connelly team at the Fair Grounds.

KRIPPLEBUSH

Kripplebush, Aug. 1—The annual Sunday school picnic will be held Tuesday afternoon and evening, August 9, at the Jr. O. U. A. M. hall. Music by Excelsior Hose Band of Kingston. Supper will be served for the Sunday school at 5 o'clock, and from 6 o'clock for the public until all are served. Refreshments of all kinds will also be on sale. Everyone come and bring your friends and enjoy a pleasant evening.

SPORT SLANTS

By Alan J. Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

When I talked with Ky Ebright, the University of California's able rowing coach, before the Poughkeepsie regatta the only question in his mind about his eight-oarded varsity crew was whether it had enough experience to "take it" and come back as brilliantly as did the 1928 boatload of Golden Bears who won the world's championship at Amsterdam.

No such doubt remained after California gave its sensational exhibition of courage and power to whip the Penn A. C. crew for the right to compete again in the Olympics.

On his return to the coast, Ebright, characteristically conservative, said:

"We still have a long way to go and we will have a tough time winning at Los Angeles but there is no question this crew has real stuff. It proved to me it can come through under pressure."

Likes 1928 Bears

Don Blessing, coxswain of the 1928 California crew, is confident the Bears will repeat their Olympic triumph but he is a trifle reluctant to admit that the present crew is quite as fast as the boatload he steered to victory from the Oakland Estuary to the Sloten canal four years ago.

"Our 1928 stroke, Pete Donlan, was the greatest pacesetter I ever saw," Blessing told me. "The day we rowed to a world's record of 6:57 for 2,000 meters at Amsterdam, I think the California crew was unbeatable anywhere and by any other combination. That mark still stands, for non-tidal water, and is four seconds faster than the time the Bears made in the final tryouts this year.

"There isn't much to choose, of course, but I would figure the 1928 a little stronger in the stern half of the boat and about a length faster than the 1932 combination."

Eastman Backer

Emerson (Bud) Spencer, now a sports writer in San Francisco, sat in the stands at Palo Alto while Bill Carr of Pennsylvania was scoring his second straight victory over Ben Eastman and at the same time knocking out Spencer's record of 47 seconds for 400 meters.

"Carr can certainly travel," said Spencer, "but I am not so sure he can beat Eastman in the Olympic 400, which will be run in lanes.

Carr's mark of 46.9 stands for a new record, although the electrophotographic timer caught the Penn flier in only 47.11 seconds for the distance.

Lee Barnes, the curly-haired vaulting champion of other years, was there to see his world's record surpassed three times in the final pole vaulting trials, first by Bill Miller, then twice by Bill Graber of Southern California. Barnes failed in a bid to make his third Olympic team. He won the Olympic title in 1924.

Republicans Attack Roosevelt Speech

Washington, Aug. 1 (AP)—More political arguments and the announcement that another supporter of Alfred E. Smith had swung into the Democratic fold today kept alive the interest in Franklin D. Roosevelt's latest campaign speech.

Numerous Republicans studied that talk for flaws, but few commented on the statement by Joseph B. Ely, Democratic Massachusetts governor, pledging loyalty to Roosevelt. Ely's decision was not unexpected.

Democrats went ahead with their planning, a close friend of the New York governor—Frank C. Walker—being chosen to take over the drive for money.

Walker's appointment as treasurer of the Democratic National Committee was announced by Chairman James A. Farley.

Republicans also pushed their campaign plans, Chairman Everett Sanders of the national committee saying in Rutland, Vermont, that Calvin Coolidge would take part in the effort to re-elect President Hoover. Just what the former president would do had not been decided, Sanders added.

The G. O. P. assault on Roosevelt's Saturday night speech brought:

Secretary Mills of the treasury, asserting in Washington that when the Democratic presidential candidate talked about fiscal affairs of the Federal government, and credit expansion he knew not whereof he spoke.

Senator L. J. Dickinson telling Roosevelt by telegram from Algona, Iowa, that he believed the New York governor had "committed an amazing deceit upon the American people" by saying the St. Lawrence waterway was included in the Democratic unemployment plank.

Watson of Indiana, Senate Republican leader, insisting at Chicago that Roosevelt's program was "part friendly to protection, part friendly to free trade, while another part demands an international conference to determine all tariff rates" and that "it is quite manifest he (Roosevelt) cannot defend them all."

Senator Smoot of Utah, charging in Washington that the governor's use of "tariffs high enough to maintain living standards which we set for ourselves" and "trade barriers of all kinds ought to be lowered" constitutes "cunningly devised phrases and 'weasel words.'"

Representative Andrew of Massachusetts, saying up in Boston that "Dr. Jekyll Roosevelt condemns the administration for resorting to inflation * * *while Mr. Hyde Garner guides the Democratic controlled House to passage of the wildly inflationary Goldsborough bill and the green back bonus measure."

Democrats provided some news of their own. Governor Ely's statement from Boston said that considering "the broad purposes of my party and the accomplishment of those things for which it has declared itself, I shall give my support to the Democratic party." He was one of the last anti-Roosevelt leaders to announce his swing.

Grand Jury Probing Bonus Army Clashes

Washington, Aug. 1 (AP)—Two groups of investigators plunged today into a mass of evidence as they sought to find out who was responsible for the tragic rioting by bonus seekers last week in which one veteran was slain.

Pelham D. Glassford, police superintendent, awaited a summons to tell the District of Columbia grand jury what he knew about the affair. A coroner took up the task of surveying the shooting of William Hushka, 37, Chicago, by a policeman.

President Hoover requested the grand jury inquiry. Justice Oscar R. Luhring of the District of Columbia supreme court, charging the grand jury with the work, expressed hope that they would find true statements that the rioting was incited by radicals and criminals rather than really patriotic former soldiers.

A score of suspected radicals were held by police with a writ of habeas corpus directing that charges against 15 of them be brought into court tomorrow. Unless similar action is taken for the remainder they will remain in jail until the police decide to free them or escort them across the District of Columbia line, as they have done several hundred others.

Glassford promised an investigation of his own. He expressed doubt that O. T. Davis, police inspector, had authority to round up several hundred men and send them out of town as he did last week. Glassford said he had not issued the orders.

The coroner's inquest was to determine whether Policeman George Shinault had been justified in shooting Hushka. The policeman said he fired at a group of veterans who were rushing him and throwing brick bats at him.

Meanwhile, the American Red Cross through De Witt Smith, manager of the eastern area, said it "might possibly" help the wives and children of bonus marchers at Johnstown, Pennsylvania, but did not plan to aid others.

TURF LOSES ONE OF ITS LEADING JOCKEYS

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 1 (AP)—The turf today had lost one of its leading jockeys while another race rider who has a law education but loves the thrill of the track, lay seriously injured in a hospital.

Charles Phillips, 26, who rode Sun Beau to fame and a small fortune for the thoroughbred's owner, Willis S. Kilmer, Binghamton publisher, last season, was killed when his automobile collided with a taxicab here yesterday. Phillips' home was in Belmont, N. Y.

Walter Magner, 27, Chicago, a graduate of University of Illinois, was injured but is expected to recover. The two jockeys were to have left yesterday to ride in the Hamilton, Ont., race meet.

Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, Sandwich, Ont., passenger in the taxicab, also was killed.

Phillips' riding contract with Kilmer expired with the close of the 1931 season and this year he had been free lancing.

Youths Enjoy Camp Trip

Eight Kingston youths are enjoying a vacation at Camp Tippe Canoe, Woodland Valley. They are Ronald McDermott, Richard McCutcheon, John Bittner, Robert Purvis, Vincent Bruck, Donald Eaton, Charles Duffy and James Noble. During the week-end the boys were visited by Mr. and Mrs. Bittner, Henry Crentz, Master Dan Bittner, Charles Mills, Barbara Bittner, Mr. and Mrs. Bruck, Alan Styles, Elizabeth Bruck, John Bruck, Zeke Boss and Dinny Moxham. Messrs. Boss and Moxham acted as chefs on Sunday and prepared a fine meal for the eight campers.

Some smokers are ugly and others are beautiful.

So fine that after the minister has ended his remarks those present wondered if they have attended the wrong funeral.

Hiram—I hear your son is getting on.

Jacob Rather. Two years ago he wore my old suits—now I wear his.

Honest Effort.

'Tis all the same with those whose lives excel,
And those who ground on Failure's shore,
Who does the best his circumstances allows does well,
And angels could do no more.

Louise had just read her composition and the teacher said:

Teacher—That is very good, Louise. Is it original?

Louise—No, I made it up.

If you spell an occasional word wrong, that's ignorance. If you spell most of them wrong, that's American humor.

Dad—Yes, my boy, I'm a self-made man.

Junior—Gee, Dad, that's what I admire about you. You always take the blame for everything.

One thing that has surprised us is the fact that the boys and girls who used to be considered wall flowers at the parties 30 years ago, are doing very well and a good many of the social lions of our day are having a hard time to get along.

The suburban husband was about to leave home for the station when his wife detained him.

Wife—John, I wish you would go out to the kitchen and give Nora a good scolding before you leave.

Suburban Husband—How's that? I thought you liked her very much.

Wife—So I do. But she's beating some carpets for me this morning, and she does it much better when she's mad.

Boy—An editor is a man who puts things in the paper, isn't he?

Dad—Oh, no, my son, an editor keeps things out of the paper.

You get cheerfulness out of life in proportion as you put cheerfulness in. You cannot invest counterfeit and expect dividends in real money.

Customs Officer—Shame on you, smuggling in that European liquor. Have you no patriotism? Don't you want to see our home industries protected?

Canned Music: It plays the same tunes every night, and also every day. A marvelous contraption is the radio, we'll say.

Abie—Why is it that you refuse to go home whenever your wife has a bridge party?

Ira—I can't stand so much cigarette smoke.

Our idea of a good way to get "a run for your money" is to get your silk hosiery at the bargain counter.

The office boy entered the sanctum of the editor of the Brushville Bugle and said:

Office Boy—Say, boss, there's a tramp outside who says he hasn't had anything to eat for six days.

Editor—Bring him in. If we can find out how he does it we can run this paper for another week.

Who said girls aren't saving? Some have the first love letter their husbands ever wrote them.

TALES OF THE CHIEFS

By Editha L. Watson

SHIKELLAMY AND TAHGAHJUTE

In marked contrast to Speedlawba is Tahgahjute (James or John Logan), the Cayuga son of a white father.

This father, known to the whites as Shikellamy, was a Frenchman who had been adopted into the Oneida tribe. He was a remarkable man, combining the astuteness of the white man with a deep affection for the Indians. This enabled him to help his adopted people in many ways, and they trusted him entirely.

Shikellamy was appointed as a deputy for the Six Nations and their tributary tribes, and most of the business of these people was transacted through him. In 1731 he delivered an ultimatum to the governor of Pennsylvania to the effect that the liquor traffic must be regulated, or the friendly relations of the Six Nations would be withdrawn. The liquor problem was an important one. The Shawnee had migrated to the Ohio river the year before, and the French were trying to gain them as allies. Pennsylvania wanted the friendship of the Iroquois, and endeavored through Shikellamy to call a council for that purpose.

Trouble came, however, when, after the Iroquois had deeded their lands to the British, another deed was signed by some of the Indians, including land to which they had no claim—which belonged, in fact, to the Delawares.

Shikellamy was the agent who accomplished this most unwise act, which sowed the seed of discord and finally caused nearly ten years of bloodshed in Pennsylvania. However, "Pennsylvania suffered that a nation might live," and the results of conciliating the Iroquois were far-reaching indeed, not so much in what they accomplished as in what they prevented.

Shikellamy, as an old man, caused a smithy and a Moravian mission to be established at Shamokin (now Sunbury, Pa.) for the benefit of the Indians and was of great assistance in the preparation of an Onondaga dictionary. He died in 1748.

Logan, his son, took his name from James Logan, who was secretary and for a time acting governor of Pennsylvania. He was born in Shamokin, but about 1770 he moved to the Ohio river, and in 1774 he lived at Old Chillicothe.

A number of white emigrants had been killed in this region, and in revenge, the white settlers on the Ohio took the lives of several Indians, including Logan's sister, who was soon to bear a child, and some other relatives. (Some chronicles say that the whites "pretended no provocation.") A man named Greathouse was the leader of the whites in this massacre, but in some manner Logan was brought to believe that Michael Cresap, who had not been present, was the guilty man. Logan's rage was indescribable. He had already acquired intemperate habits, and these added to the violence of his feelings.

His desire for revenge led him to commit the most awful barbarities. Men, women, and even children of the border settlements were killed, under horrible conditions. He seemed to have undertaken an orgy of killing without end, and months went by before peace was again established.

Logan's famous speech is well known, but part of it bears repeating here:

"I appeal to any white to say, if ever he entered Logan's cabin hungry, and he gave him not meat; if ever he came cold and naked, and he clothed him not. . . . I had even thought to have lived with you, but for the injuries of one man, Colonel Cresap, the last spring, in cold blood, and unprovoked, murdered all the relatives of Logan; not even sparing my women and children. There runs not a drop of my blood in the veins of any living creature. This called on me for vengeance. I have sought it. I have killed many. I have fully glutted my vengeance. . . . Who is there to mourn for Logan? Not one!"

This speech, from the exaggerations contained in it, is supposed to be an enlargement upon his real statement. It was read at the treaty meeting at Chillicothe, Ohio, from which Logan was absent.

From being drunk with blood, the unfortunate chief turned to his previous drink, the white man's whisky. It was not long before he abandoned himself to intemperance, and became a quarrelsome drunkard.

He was about fifty-five years old when he died. He had been on a journey to Detroit, and on his return his nephew, during a fierce quarrel, killed him.

Famous Old London Church

St. Mary-le-Bow is probably the most celebrated parish church in Britain, and was at one time the meeting place of the ecclesiastical court of arches and the scene of the legal confirmation of bishops. The latter ceremony was, however, transferred to church house, Westminster, about the beginning of this century. The crypt of the church dates back to Norman times, and the steeple is one of the finest examples of Sir Christopher Wren's work.

Militant Democrat Hoover's Choice

Pomerene, Ardent "Party Man," To Head Finance Body

Cleveland, O.—To a militant Democrat whose pet aversion once was "Wall Street," President Hoover has assigned the task of maneuvering the mobilized credit of billions for the relief of business, big and little.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, probably the largest financial agency ever set up by a government for private and public enterprise, is now in the hands of a man whose partisanship has been more than nominal.

Former United States Senator Atlee Pomerene, of Ohio, appointed chairman of the finance corporation board now numbering four Democrats to three Republicans, has been an active party man early and late.

In 1928 he was the state's "favorite son" for the presidential nomination, and again this year was mentioned.

But he also has been independent on occasion. Although regarded as a Senate spokesman for President Wilson, he voted for the reservations to the Versailles treaty.

Pomerene was previously honored by a Republican president when, in 1924, President Coolidge made him a special prosecutor in the Teapot Dome and Elk Hills oil lease cases.

Atlee Pomerene, Democrat, has been appointed by President Hoover as chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

In 1911 he introduced a resolution demanding criminal prosecution of officers of the Standard Oil Company and what he called the "tobacco trust."

He was a member of the Senate banking and currency committee, which may have equipped him for his part as one of the world's largest bankers.

His opposition to the Plumb bill for government control of railroads caused labor unions to claim credit for his defeat by Senator Simeon D. Fess in 1922. His votes against woman suffrage and prohibition also were factors in his defeat.

One of the eleven children of a country doctor, Pomerene went to Princeton, where he not only worked his way to a degree with honors, but also tutored a blind brother.

His political career began at Canton, O., within a year after his graduation from Cincinnati Law School, in the office of city solicitor. Next he was elected prosecutor and caught the fancy of Tom L. Johnson, famous reform mayor of Cleveland.

Johnson supported him for governor against Judson Harmon. Pomerene was defeated, but in 1910 was elected lieutenant governor. He held the post only a few days until his election as Senator.

His defeat in 1922 did not cause him to retire.

BRODHEAD.

Brodhead, Aug. 1.—Oliver Tweedy of Brodhead Heights has purchased a Chevrolet truck and is employed on the county road work at Kingsville. "Sir Oliver" surely is a much occupied young man with his various lines of activity.

James and Robert Gordon, our hustling youthful agriculturists, have been harvesting their oats crop and hauling it to the barn with the faithful family truck.

Henry Bells, local truckman, is making frequent trips to the Ashokan station with huckleberries and poultry products grown on Luddy's High Point Poultry Farm.

Harlowe McLean with his big gray horse, is busy with the haying. Mr. McLean is having a good season with his chickens and also has been occupied with the gathering of his huckleberry crop.

Albert Nichols has some siding boards sawed last week at the West Shokan mill. It is rumored that wedding bells may ring when the work is all done this fall.

Henry Bell, with his truck, did the hay hauling for his neighbor, Van Crispell.

Oscar Crispell of Kingston visited his home here on Sunday.

Ernest Palen and Company, the community haying specialists, have finished their season's contract on several farms and still several others are awaiting harvest. When completed, eight different farms will have been cleaned up.

Jordan Brothers have completed their haying, which is the largest in the vicinity. About fifty loads yearly are grown on their flats along the roadway. Among their crew of haying hands were Adrian Beadle of Traver Hollow, Egbert Van Kleeck, Lewis Stickles, Joe Bushee and John Ellsworth.

The members of the Wittemore family are spending the season at their new home formerly the Canfield property. Mr. Wittemore is an artist by profession.

Raymond Miller of Brodhead Heights section has completed his haying.

Isaac Winchell gathered the hay from Mrs. William Burgher's farm at West Shokan Heights.

A large group of the personnel and guests of High Point Camp attended the I. O. O. F. dance at Olive Bridge Thursday evening.

Francis Conro of Mohonk Lake, who is recovering from a case of broken ribs, has been visiting at his former home here.

Charles Allen of Hurley is supplying High Point Camp with milk and vegetables. Mr. Allen is also conducting a thrice a week trip to Delaware county with his farm produce which finds a ready sale.

Farmers are busily engaged with their threshing. Both Jordan Brothers and Palen's have their wheat threshing completed and are now paying attention to the oats crop. Jordan Brothers have a hundred if not more bushels of wheat and Mr. Palen nearly a hundred, and also has threshed around a hundred and fifty bushels of oats.

Mr. Malloy, proprietor of the Twin Maples tourists resort, has returned from a trip to Atlantic City. Mr. Malloy is making preparations to engage in the poultry business upon an extensive scale. He also plans to develop a pedigreed cat and dog kennel. All wish a great measure of success to Mr. Malloy who is a comparatively new comer in this locality.

High Point Camp is being favored with a most successful season and is booked to capacity for the month of August.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dewey of White Plains, New York, were guests at the home of the Palen family from Thursday night till Saturday afternoon when they returned home.

All sincerely sympathize with Jimmy Eckert, who fell from the hay mow three weeks ago and sustained a fractured ankle. He is now able to hobble around with the aid of chairs and things and hopes ere long to be able to navigate a bit more readily and clean up the fence rows left over from haying. This is the first vacation Mr. Eckert has enjoyed in the past forty years or so, but he would preferred to have taken the time off at a less busy season of the year.

Mr. and Mrs. William Beesmer of Pine Tree Cottage, are very busy catering to the needs of their numerous summer guests. On Saturday morning Mr. Beesmer was called up to make a hurried business trip to the neighboring supply center, at West Shokan.

Great strides have been made the past week with the building program being conducted by Norman Van Buren. The frame of the main dwelling house is now completed and partly enclosed and will be completed for occupancy, it is expected, before the swallows take their homeward flight.

Mr. and Mrs. John Eckert are kept very busy with their haying which has been prolonged due to the misfortune which befell Mr. Eckert's brother James early in the season. The crop on the faithful old meadows this year is an abundant one. The spacious barn is crammed to the eaves and now a stack outside is making its way skyward.

Miss Meir, a city guest has been entertained for the past three weeks at Palen's farm. Miss Meir, who formerly lived in Bavaria, Germany, has become much attached to the hospitality accorded by Mr. and Mrs. Palen, also to the scenic surrounding of the valley and mountains which remind her of the familiar scenes of the Fatherland.

HURLEY

Hurley, Aug. 1.—Mrs. Mary Dunn has returned home after spending two weeks with her brother in Clintondale.

Miss Edith Piltz, who is working in Kingston, has had a few days vacation. She spent part of her vacation at Mt. Kisco and Rye Beach.

Carl Schleeder and friend attended church here on Sunday morning. The Rev. Mr. Schleeder at one time was pastor of this church.

Plans are to be made for the annual Sunday School picnic. All the teachers are requested to meet at the home of Mrs. Dunn on Monday evening. The picnic will be held the latter part of this month.

Clark Dixon, county officer of the Sunday School, gave the school a talk on Sunday morning, telling them of the county Sunday Schools.

Irene Snyder, who has been spending two weeks vacation at home, has returned to work.

All are glad to know that the Rev. Mr. Chilton is very much improved. Dr. Cantine of Stone Ridge preached the morning sermon again on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Brown are planning to move shortly on their property which they recently purchased on Joys Lane.

The annual Church fair and supper will be held August 10. Miss Anna DeWitt will have charge of the supper and Mrs. Kathryn Rosa will be in charge of the fancy articles.

JOHNSTON BUYS NORTH FRONT STREET STORE PROPERTY.

The store property on North Front street at the head of Crown street formerly occupied by the James Kelley feed and grocery store, has been purchased by Joseph Johnston of Hurley avenue. The property is a two story structure with two stores on the ground floor. Mr. Johnston purchased the property as an investment.

Sunday School Picnic.

The scholars of the Elmendorf Street Presbyterian Sunday School, with their parents and friends, will hold a picnic at Forsyth Park Wednesday afternoon, August 3, at two o'clock. Games and races will be held for the children and a good time is promised all.

Dr. Voss Returns Home.

Dr. and Mrs. F. H. Voss returned home Sunday from a seven weeks trip abroad. The doctor will resume his practice Tuesday.

GIRL SCOUTS
ULSTER COUNTY COUNCIL
PROF. A. M. BENNETT, Commissioner.
MISS MILDRED M. EATON, Director.

During the first encampment at Camp Wendy there were all kinds of feats and stunts carried out by the campers. One afternoon an invitation for supper from the Lost Boys was hurled into the Pirate Shack. There was much excitement on the way for a fairy showed them the old woman who lived in a vinegar bottle. When they got there they built camp fires and had such fun having a singing contest.

On a Saturday evening a salamagundi party was held at Peter Pan recreational hall. The girls all took part in a variety of games, and prizes were awarded the winners. In Peter Pan hall was also given a play by the Tinkerbells. It was a pantomime of Puss-in-Boots.

A treasure hunt always means lots of fun and excitement, so one day the Girl Scouts had a gay time trailing through the woods to find a treasure which proved to be Esquimo pies.

Perhaps the most enjoyable stunt was a trip to Minnewaska. It took three days and the girls came back to camp happy and healthy after their hike through the woods.

At the close of each encampment awards are given. These awards are: A green W for the Girl Scouts showing superb camp spirit, cooperation and general ability, a white T for those of outstanding work and cooperation; a green maple leaf to those with the highest rating in daily nature quests. Everyone is always anxious to know who the lucky girls are who will receive these awards. This time Ellenville feels very proud to have as one of her Scouts the only girl to receive the green W. She is Rita Dolan. The white T was given to Arathea Cone of Westwood, Betty Gibson of Leonia, Ellen Hume of White Plains, Jane Kennedy of Westwood, and Jane Ward of New Paltz. The green maple leaves were awarded to Bee Wakeman, Amy Tarr, Lucia Signorelli, Adele Schwald, Lois Reed, Mae Randall, Kathryn Limberg and Edna Limberg of Leonia; Jane Kramer, Eleanor Ely and Margaret Bonzo of Westwood; Alice Hellegers of Passaic; Dorothy Gilbert of Greenwood; Winifred Davies of White Plains; Virginia Beddal of Beacon and Aimee Almfelt of Kingston.

World's First Botanist?

Theophrastus, a native of Lesbos, is called the world's first botanist. He died about 200 B. C., and with him died the science of botany, for we do not hear of a single new discovery in that subject for more than 1,800 years.
